Neither had I - well found Mads.

What an object lesson in how to look iconic on your own bedsit floor...

Right... (scans room for clues..) I like room shots....

Is the photographer behind the TV?? What would those awards be for I wonder..maybe she just got them and that's the reason for the picture session.

There's the record player from cover of Classics and Collectables & I would think the black box holds Dusty's 45s, unless it's a reel to reel.

The gold lampshade style - very trendy again now. I can't quite read the clock - is it 3 pm in one picture and 3:30 in the other? I wonder if she made the photographer a cup of tea. Lucky man.

And it's a Wednesday...

no I made that up. But what do you think for the date ... 1966?

You're doing better than me, I can't even see the clock!!

Tim - you've missed your calling in life. Definitely should have been a detective 😊

Lovely sequence of shots Mads, not seen all before so thank you.
Looked at the clock and felt it may have even been 12:15pm, but it isnt clear. I like the clear shot 3rd pic, the shadows are somehow nicer.

I'd love to know how long it took her to do her hair. All that teasing and back-combing must have been bloody hard work!

Stunning photos indeed! She was just beyond gorgeous.

I love these pictures too. As far as I know, none of them every made an appearance in the sixties, though that colourful suit did in other shots. I only saw them sometime in the past few years, since Dusty died anyway. I'd say they were taken in 1965 because that suit got worn around Middle of Nowhere time. Neil, I'm with you on the lamp, how could they not have noticed that! If you check out the centrefold of the Classics and Collectibles booklet, the lamp is perfectly upright there and as her hair is the same for both outfits, I'd guess they were taken the same day. So somebody had the nous to straighten the lamp!
