You are right Cas, Wendy told me she had a great deal of trouble capturing the eyes on this one, but if you look at the original photo you can see why.

This picture, I asked Wendy to do as it will be the top prize in the first raffle next year. We will give you a little time for your wallets to recover, then launch into it. will need to be completed by the end of March as I leave on a 2 month trip then so we will start the raffle around early February. There will be lots of other great prizes too. I knew this would be a favourite pic of LTD'ers and this is the first time that one of Wendy's pastels has been offered as a prize. Some lucky LTDer will win this! Thanks to Wendy for donating it as a prize. 😊

Say, Wendy, can you post that lovely pastel again as somehow it has disappeared, probably due to the problems over last weekend. Thanks 😊

It is my fault Kathy, not the site's. I was trying to clean up my photobucket and delete the first drawing of this picture, but I accidentally managed to delete the first and second drawing. (they all look the same on Photobucket). I will take another picture of it within the next day or two and put it back on, and send you the link. Bear with me, because I have to get the light right in my house somewhere, as you know it is sometimes like going back to the dark ages here - lightwise. It gets dark by 4 O'clock in the afternoon.

This looks a lot better on my wall actually. The light is very bad this week, and that's the best I could do.

Beautiful job, Wendy!

I can't wait to get my picture back from the framers and show it off here!!! It should be ready next week.

Here's mine Cor, against all odds I'm building up a little gallery above my computer. I can hear you wincing from here because they are not in a frame.

Wendy..it's so funny that when I saw your latest drawing (which is another excellent Dusty) I thought...it would be great to see them all up on a wall together ..ne to each other..and lo and behold there they were. 😊
