Oh sorry Bosseh - thanks for those lovely beautiful coloured pictures you have taken the trouble to put on. Bless you my child. I've had a very busy week with grandchildren and cats and things, and my heads somewhere else. But you know I do appreciate it and you too. LOL

>>What colored ones by Will?<<

The one I posted yesterday at Wend's request, and another I sent her in email. She wasn't meaning the three coloured versions of the 'flower' image posted above.

No need to grovel, Wendeh, LOL, but glad you like them. Thanks for supplying them for "my coloring book."

Wend,
I'm happy to see that you're building a web site for all your fabulous drawings...good for you. I look forward to watching it's progression...it's looking great so far.

Thanks Paula, don't expect too much, cause I'm just a novice at building websites. So criticism is welcomed. As it will be an ongoing thing.

hey Wend..at least you're trying. I don't know how as I have never tried. Lu has been working on hers with the help from the Apple store classes she goes to. The more steps, the more technical. I think its just fine to have something simple if you just want a place to put everything together for show...its going to be great. 😊

This is not a drawing, although it may be one day, it is a picture I ran off on my printer which was supposed to come out in black and white, but my printer is going ape-sh*t, and this is what I got.

I rather like it. Dusty in turquoise.

Dusty looks good in any color. And what a nice drawing that will make, Wendeh!
