Seems like we discussed this in the past--perhaps the topic was archived. Anyway, as we have some new members, and most of us change avatars from time to time, I'm wondering if you'd comment on why you chose your current avatar? What about Dusty does this image evoke for you?

To make it more fun, how about saying which Dusty song you think goes with your avatar!

Well, I chose this particular avatar purely because i adore the expression on her face. She seems miles away lost in thought and unaware of her surroundings, it may only have been a fleeting moment but i think its a very natural picture. I suppose the song that most fits this avatar has got to be The Windmills of your mind. Great topic nancy!!

Chose my current one because it is a scan from a late 70s concert program a friend of a friend very kindly gave to me. Sentimental value!

The song would have to be

I'm Coming Home Again (the live at Pebble Mill version)

'I'd like to retouch my whole life!'

I just note that you've changed your avatar to a "long-time favourite", Nancy! 🙄

I change my avatar from time to time. There are just so many gorgeous piccies of Dusty! This one I've had for quite a while now, though. It's just SO iconic...

The song to go with it? Hmmmm... I guess it would be "Just a little lovin"! 😘 through everything, but I can't find one that suits me better. Beautiful pictures, yes, but I like the quirkyness of this one. The song would have to be I Just Don't Know What To Do With Myself.

My avatar shows Dusty in a period where she was more natural - less makeup and hair natural (not wig or back-comed) to death. Like the fact that you can see her face. Such a beautiful one 🙏

The song has to be 'Living Without Your Love'. Recorded in that year. And I really like the beat.

misty 🙏

Posted - 16/03/2008 : 01:42:56

Apart from its sentimental value, I like my avatar because I imagine Dusty at that time as very youthful, optimistic, forward-looking and filled with the joy of life.

The song I imagine going with this avatar would have to be Goin' Back - a reminiscent look retrospectively and nostalgically to all I described above.

I consider my avatar to be the "classic" picture of Dusty for a lack of a better expression. A Call Called Dusty is one of her best albums. Now you want me to pick a song from that album!!!! I'll narrow it down to two, Anyone Who Had a Heart and Summer Is Over.

well I first saw the pic on the cover of Dusty... ..Definitely And I just fell in love with it and its always been my fav pic....she just looks calm and layed back..and so pretty....and her dress and hair in the pic...freakin' awesome! lol im going to go with In The Land Of Make Believe for this one... 🙏

My current avatar shows Dusty's beautiful eyes and her cheeky side in the same photo. Although I associate it with Roll Away in my mind it is also connected with Go Easy On Me, which in my opinion is a much underrated song of Dusty's. 😊

I guess I chose this particular avitar (which I haven't changed in quite awhile now) because I, of course, like this photo and I am particularly fond of Dusty's music and voice around this this period..late 60's/early 70's. I hope I'm getting the year right but I hear just about anything from 'Brand New Me' coming out of this avatar. 😊

Hi Misty,

I went back to this avatar for sentimental reasons. It reminds me of when I was first really getting into Dusty online. This image to me is both powerful and vulnerable. Supposedly it was taken for a promo of when she was lip synching to some of her songs at an LA gay bar. It made me kinda sad that that was the only gig Dusty could get at the time. Not cuz it was a gay bar, just not a proper venue, and also that she was miming and not singing. I also think it's a sexy photo. Although when I first saw it, I couldn't really believe it was Dusty. It still holds a lot of mystery and power for me, although I feel like I'm only able to describe a small piece of it

I'll have to think about a song that fits that image; one isn't coming right to the top of my head ATM, even though this thread was my idea LOL.

I remember reading that story too Nancy but I was told it was complete rubbish! Those shots were taken by David Bailey, I would have thought if Dusty could afford him as a photographer, then she wasn't doing too badly.

Surely you're not suggesting that DWD has some inaccuracies in it, Carole? 😊

But what part is untrue--that the pics were to promote the bar appearances? That she made the bar appearances? Or both?

Carole, do you know any place to get a good copy of any of those photos?

Or perhaps someone can post one here?

That they were taken for the gay bar appearance Nancy. They may have been used for a flier, I don't know, but I was told that that was not the reason they were taken. Not sure where I can lay my hands on the pics right now (apart, obviously from DWD) but I'll have a look later, I'm sure I have at least one in good quality.

I chose my avatar because it reminds me of Dusty in the Sixties. (So long ago!! Makes me feel really old!) The song to go with it 'I Close My Eyes and Count To Ten'. Dusty appears to be wearing the same blue dress on the videos.

Chris

Posted - 17/03/2008 : 23:55:08

Yes Carole - DWD was wrong to imply they were taken specifically for the bars in the early 80's - obviously her hair style dates the session from the 'It Begins Again' period - 1977. (how sad to obsess about hair....LOL) Unusually ..erm ..revealing shot - quite brave and uncharacteristic of Dusty. Her image looks a bit 'hard' to me but then I'm a 60s boy.

Therefore - leading us back on topic - your avatar is one of my favourite pics, Chris!

Wonderful! You never lose in sepia... 😊

Cor xx

Posted - 18/03/2008 : 22:25:28

Sepia certainly softens the features, I'm in agreement with Tim in finding the pictures a little hard. It's the lack of a smile that I don't like, the ones with the same hair do when she came back in 78 and smiled lots for the cameras, are just wonderful.

If anyone has Fred Perry's DWD corrections, he describes in detail the appearance Dusty made in a gay bar in LA....it was just the one time. He said it was on La Brea and called Greg's Blue Dot.

Funny about the hair , Tim but it's true..you can ALMOST always place the year by the hair...and DWD was way off.
Dusty does have a bit of a hard look in Nancy's avatar (but I like it still)..the sepia color makes it look like she has a little bit of a smile.

uhmmm...I like the tie. 😊

I've always like the black and white stylized image of Dusty with her arms folded (you all know which one I'm talking about). I didn't find that avatar here but as I was browsing through the images, I saw this one of her playing the guitar. I didn't know she played and I've only recently seen video of her playing on youtube. Does anyone know of any other images of Dusty playing the guitar? It was quite unusual for female pop stars of the 60s (in the states at least) to play guitar! Just another example of how unique Dusty was.

I chose my avatar cos it's from the RAH show and Dusty always looks like she's having a lot of fun that night and that's always lovely to see!

Don't know why but there are two songs I love going with it and they are 'All I Have To Offer You Is Love' and 'Very Fine Love' from the VFL album..

I always like to think that she felt this way about her fans who were (and still are!) always so loyal :

"How did I ever live without your love?
It's the only thing I'm certain of
No matter what I'm going through
I know I can count on you

You're more precious to me every day
Life is better now in every way
You don't have to lay the world at my feet
You have made my world complete"

Cas.

Your avatar always reminds me of 'Losing You'.
Although we are all familiar with Dusty's appearance on the Ready Steady Go video clip of this song - hair tied back with black bow - this image was used to advertise the single in the music press for a week or two before it's release. So I always associate it with this song and of course to a certain extent with it's great B side 'Summer is Over'.

Dez.

First of all, apologies to Mark. I've just noticed that I've selected the same avatar. If you want me to change it Mark, please let me know.
But this is one of my favourit images of Dusty. She looks full of fun and energy, just about to bop around the dance floor. So, the song that I associate with this image is 'Live it up'.

A difficult one this, Michael.
The photo is one of several taken during Dusty's recording session in New York in September 1964. She recorded 8 tracks at the time and my favourite track by far from this session is 'Don't Say It Baby'. A great track which I believe was strong enough to have been a single.
So this is my suggestion.

This avatar of Dusty cradling her guitar is my favorite. It seems to unify Dusty's personality. It makes her whole, complete, and at one with herself and the universe. Take away the guitar (in this avatar) and there is a sense of emptiness, sadness, loneliness. Don't you think so? When I study this avatar, I imagine Dusty singing NO SAD SONGS FOR ME.

Since I've changed my avatar again, what can I say about this one? I guess I find it sexy and unusual. I think it's from when Dusty interviewed the Beatles on RSG. So for the moment I'm going to say the song is "You Can't Do That" which Paul and John wrote and Dusty performed on the radio or TV (I've heard her sing it anyway!) Looks like she might be saying something serious in that avatar.

I chose mine because it's as close as I can get to Dusty's Memphis and post Memphis soul period. I listen to these tracks more often. It also reflects 'see all her faces' ie her many aspects and layers ,and, Dusty as her own creation or construct. I like her direct gaze. I prefer her more natural 'It Begins Again' look.

The picture brings to mind 'Crumbs off the Table' for me. She's gotta lot of soul but she can be tough too.

My avatar suggests sophistication and relaxation at the same time. I absolutely love this Dusty look with her hair up - something that was new for her in 1965/6. A period in which she had her greatest hits and was at her most popular. This reflects my own particular period of elation with life. I was inexperienced, young and green, as they say - looking at life's salad days, with so much to come and so much to look forward to.

The song is Your Hurtin' Kinda Love. An achingly haunting ballad and one of my all time favourite records.

I picked mine cause I love the pic! lol

But I think Doodlin' or MockingBird could go with what I got right now....perhaps even Heartbeat.

Sorry to butt in - I've already posted about my avatar here. But Peter, 'Your Hurtin' Kinda Love' is one of my all time favourites too. It doesn't get referenced much probably because it wasn't a big hit and so isn't included on many compilations. This was the first Dusty song to 'shock' me (back in 1979ish) in the best way because of the intensity of Dusty's performance and the fantastic Spectorish production. I couldn't stop playing it. Looking back, that's the track that made me realise how great Dusty was and is.

Ever since we met...

Make that three ..who love, love "Your Hurtin Kind of Love" One of Dusty's strongest vocals ..with all the emotion. paula x

I love the sophistication of the upswept styles too Peter, mine shows it from the back. As for YHKL, when the song first came out I was so disappointed. I thought it was disjointed and strained and I wasn't sure of the break in her voice, which my mum insisted made her sound like Gracie Fields. What a silly, silly young fool I was, it took me years to appreciate the performance for what it was and now, although still not one of my favourites, I see how it stands up amongst Dusty's best dramatic performances. I think the fact that it wasn't a big hit made me disgruntled with it too.
