Neil sent me this link from Smooth FM. I'm not sure if this can only be heard by us in the NW of England or if it's nationwide, but let them know how popular Dusty is and vote for your choice of music.

So, are we all gonna vote for the same tune, Carole...?

I thought I'd pick 'All I See Is You'. 😊😊

What d'ya think?

I've voted from Oz, but voted for I Close My Eyes and Count to Ten, surely they'll play more than one song 😊--and I bet my request comes from the furthest away place 😊

I actually also tried to bring In The Winter to their attention, you never know, it might work.

I hope I don't forget about this show this afternoon as I can't seem to find a listen again option. According to their site, we've been quite prolific with our requests 🍏

"Fiona had an unprecedented response from the Dusty Springfield fans last week - find out what tracks go with her into the All Girl Hall Of Fame between 2 and 3".

There is a listen again archive (the link is on the right of the main screen) but I'm not sure that everything is in the archive. The show itself is on between 2 and 3 this afternoon, as noted. And those further afield can listen live online.

I recorded this show - thnaks very much for the tip. I listened to it just now. The winning song was 'I Only Want To Be With You'.

Fiona said 'All I See Is You' got lots of votes too. I thought the show might include a feature on Dusty but it was just the one track.

well fiona phillips totally pissed me off today with that show, all that hype and me badgering people into voting, and not only does she only play one song, she doesnt even refer to her, no brief history for new listeners, no admiration, it was totally unenthusiastic. I was busy hurtling around in the car with jason doing some diy shopping and pet shop etc, and i listened in while he went in the shops (thats a first) so we got home and in the time it took to get out of the car door and unlock the front door and switch the radio on, i caught the last few bars of IOWTBWY. Gutted. And that was it, nothing else. I know that its still fabulous to have one song but what a crock of sh*t for a show compared to what i was expecting, a whole hour interspersed with dusty classics and loads of dusty chat. I may have woke up to fiona for 15 years but ive gone right off her now

It was a bit of a let down, a non event so to speak. If you're going to run something like that then do it properly or just don't bother. At least the fact that they had an outstanding responce from fans, might make them realise just how popular Dusty is.

I think I'm picking up a vibe from Neil that he was overly enamoured with the show, then?

Seriously, how disappointing. I have to agree with Mr Tiggs and Ms Dreamer and say it does sound rather disappointing and a total waste of time; to read the blurb on the website, you would think it was a real big thing, something really worth tuning in for. The reality, alas, sounds somewhat different. Pity.

All the same, it's a joy to know that the Neil of 'The One And Only' has been busy again and hasn't lost his touch :)

I listened to the show from the beginning. Fiona introduced a Supremes track as a Diana Ross track. After the 3 minute Dusty piece she said Whitey Houston was next weeks candidate and went on to tell us how 'I Will Always Love You' was her favourite Whitney track because she had a serious break-up to it. Later she said she loved James Blunt and went into a heavy promotion of Leon Jackson's (2007 X Factor winner) single 'Stargazing' (OK - it's not bad at all). That's when I switched off.

Her producer must have put Dusty on the list. I don't think it had anything to do with Fiona. And I don't think Fiona knows a jot about Dusty or her music. But every little helps as Carole says.
