Bet that stopped you in your tracks Nancy 😊 Yes, post the link please. I did have a little clock with the DIM label set in a box made from the DIM cover but I've never seen a picture face one while I've been out and about.

Not bad for a place filled with junk from people's basements 😊

Very clever idea Nancy. It should be possible to make one from a CD, printer and a clock movement that you can buy. Interesting project!

I did say in my first post that it broke, but then took that out because I realised it was you that bought it for me! Sadly after a couple of years, it just stopped working.

Glad you all like it; don't have the url with me -- i'm at \internet cafe--but will post later...

i bought a battery y'day but the clock wasn't working...but then \i realized the lil arms were bent and catching on one another so i straightened them out so to speak and she's been keeping good time ever since.

i just love it.

actually carole all the usual iconic susp[ects were on display but i had to paw through a book to find dusty--and the probably let out some embarrassing squeal.

You could try just putting a new movement in it. 😊 nice clock Nancy. 😊 actually clocks can be easily made since they sell clock parts for homemade clocks in many stores.

...I'm always seeing ideas for building/creating things...commenting that it looks easy but not following through. 😞

Until I find the flyer 😊, people might want to look at this...you can download any picture and they'll make a CD sized clock out of it.

Let us know if you get a Dusty clock !!
