Anyone know how one can get a copy of the Dusty Bulletin Christmas work that sold out? I see reference in threads to various CDs and thought perhaps that might be a possibility? Thanks, Ro

Since I am a Secular Christmas freak I would too like to know how to get my hands on some of Dusty's Christmas music. How many holiday songs did she record anyways?

She recorded one by herself, 'O Holy Child', which was a single in 1964. She also recorded 7 Christmas songs with The Springfields.

I uploaded this file on the 16th, so the link should still work:

Christmas with The Springfields,

Not studio recordings, but Dusty did sing Christmassy songs on the Rod McKuen Show in 1978. The Carols of Christmas, Baby It's Cold Outside and So My Sheep May Safely Graze with Rod, and Simple Gifts by herself. Plus a couple of carols with the choir at the end. I've always thought it to be a rather stilted show, sort of better to hear than watch and I never normally would say that about anything with Dusty on!

If Richard (above) and Duztfan would like to email me I can help a little here. 😊

By the Way here is the cover of the 1960's extended play record Christmas with the Springfields.

I always liked that picture too! Dusty looks great with a little BLUE eye shadow.

Is it just me, I never saw any family resemblance between Dusty and Tom?

I gotta agree with ya Marty bout the gorgeous electric blue eyeshadow, such a pretty little lady she was!
Not so sure about Dusty and Tom, if you think about it they have a similar facial structure but then they look so different in pictures...maybe it was all the makeup and wigs. 😊

Speaking of which has anyone heard anything of Tom in the last 30 years?

Tom is alive and well but still a bit of a recluse by all accounts. He lives in Chelsea and can occasionally be spotted walking on the Kings Rd. 😊 I do see some resemblance between brother and sister in the shape of their faces and sometimes the smile. I've seen a couple of pictures of Tom taken in the 70's and he had the biggest, bushiest beard. He didn't look a lot like Dusty then. 😊

Thanks for that Carole, very interesting to know. I always loved the songs he wrote, would love it if he wrote one more old type hit 😊
I have been reading through some old threads, all so knowledgeable you are on Miss Springfield! Thanks again....
