I bought this photo a few years ago and on the back are newspaper stamps (Daily Mirror and Daily Sun) from 1964. Also typed on the back is the small article that must have appeared with the photo, or was info given with it at the time. It says: - Blond pop star Dusty Springfield, 23, was singing again yesterday (Tuesday 21/1/64), after a week's rest on doctors orders. Her first job: a disc recording session in a West End studio. That's Dusty, wearing a chic two piece python outfit and high zip-up boots as she sits in front of the microphone. Only a week ago she cancelled her engagements after being told she was on the verge of collapse.

Also stuck on the back of the photo was this small clipping...

I also love that photo Thanks! 😊 IJDKWTDWMS failed to top the chart!?!?! Why is it always regarded as one of Dust's hits?

Because it got to No.3 Matt! From memory, it was held back by the Beatles and the Stones.

Unlike today, if a record got to no.3 back then, it was massive.

But in the artical it says that it "failed to top the pops" - but it did if it got to #3.

Not seen that one before Carole thankyou. I have of course seen lots of pics from that same shoot. I hadnt seen the article either and had no idea that Dusty was a Patron for the then Mentally Handicaped. Today those lovely people would perhaps be classed as Special Needs a subject that is close to my heart. I enjoy working with people who have special needs of any kind and sometimes help my friend Sharon who teaches Line Dancing to them on a Monday afternoon, I have 2 left feet and cant dance for the life in me but it is so much fun and I come away knowing how lucky I am. Sorry to go off topic but its lovely to know Dusty cared.

I noticed that too, Cas. Very lovely. How did she ever find the time! No wonder she almost had a burn-out.

You're not off topic Cas and it's put a smile on my face to imagine you line dancing! 🤷

Makes me wonder how much charity work Dusty actually did. We know the RAH was for charity and I'm sure I've read of other things. I'll do a bit of searching, see if anything else springs up.

thanks for the article, Carole. Dusty looks younger than she usually does to me here..yes, 23yrs is young but she always looked a little older than she was to me..most likely because of her dress & make up.

What a fascinating little article! Lovely picture, too.

And I thought the name of the Society she patronised was very appropriate. I wonder if that had any bearing on her choice to do so?
