This was done by a US DJ friend of mine whose hobby is creating remixes of mainly Motown songs. Sometimes he creates impossible magical duets. This is one of them which I hope that you will enjoy.

If anyone wants it put on here as a mp3 I will do so.

Very clever..and very good. However !!...What a difference between Dusty's sultry version and the strained Cilla!

Fab!...Really enjoyed that, John.

It don't do Cilla any favours though does it?..☹

Thankyou.

Thanks very much Humboldt. This is a fantastic mix.

I see that ptownmowndj's YouTube site is full of treasure.

Yes it is indeed full of treasure. It's a labour of love. I wish that I was clever enough to do that.

Thanks Humboldt! Both singers' versions are quite nice. Both Cilla and Miss Dusty have slightly different interpretations of the song, and both work well.

very clever doing this I like Cilla but she is a bit too strident as she didnt have the depth of our Dusty. I liked it all the same. just nice to listen to new collabs as we all know Dustys stuff so well.thanks for sharing this.

Sorry John, I like Cilla too.

No-one could sing 'Alfie' like her...Not even Ms. Warwick.

No problem Carole. I know Cilla's version from '65 when it was a single peaking at #17. I didn't hear Dusty's version until the mid '80's. Cilla re-recorded it a few years ago and made a very good job of it too.

I always loved this song, even when the only available version initially was by Cilla, and was so, so thrilled to see that Dusty had included it on her ECUD album - couldn't wait to hear her version. This duet is very clever and, whilst I still like Cilla, obviously Dusty's version of this song is much superior - a much more sympathetic and emotive reading of the song and so very effectively subtle whereas Cilla's voice does sound a bit strained - but still effective. I enjoyed this - thanks for posting it!

I couldn't find Cilla's 2003 re-recording anywhere on the web so I've uploaded a link in order that you may hear it if you so wish. 😊

I like Cilla too!...at least from 64-72. She made some great records, but for me it's like putting champagne with appletizer 🍷

Thanks again, Humboldt. It's not a competition. It's a tribute. For the record, I prefer both versions. I like Cilla's 2003 version - her voice is fine. I thought she'd lost it. Dusty was a perfectionist and she had a Great Voice. Cilla was a great pop star and she fully appreciated Dusty's talent. I think you gave us a re-mix of 'Step Inside Love' too. That's one of my Walkman favourites. 😊 Here it is:

I can hardly remember Dusty from the 60s while Cilla was a great family favourite. Another version of the the Cilla show intro that I remember so well:

I espeically enjoyed the pictures on the top link. In the US, we have scene so little of Cilla that by comparison Dusty Springfield is a household name. Also enjoyed hearing Step Inside Love in both English and Italian.

Thanks for posting!

Marty 😊👍👍
