'Just Dusty' has made Sainsbury's own chart at number 7 - first week. Hopefully it will repeat that and make the national chart on Sunday.

I've been looking for the official mid week charts online and although I can see that Dusty is in the top 30, I can't find a proper list to see at what number.

I saw lots of copies in HMV the other day but when you look at what else is in the rack, there are just so many compilations that are cheaper, and you do wonder if people come in looking for Just Dusty but buy something else instead. I bought Gold for £5.00 as I got my free Just Dusty on Sunday.

I'm just back from Morrisons and guess who they were playing? Yep, DUSTY!! Singing 'Scandal' (such a scandal).. And the 'Just Dusty' CD is at No11 in their in-store chart and is the 'Recommended CD Of The Week' :)

This is turning into a Dusty day of sorts..

After Morrison's, I got home and while having lunch, Heather phoned just as I turned the page of the paper - and who was there on the page but DUSTY!

It was a review of 'Just Dusty' -

One of Britain's greatest ever singers, every tune blows you away. Includes classics I Only Want To Be With You and Son Of A Preacher Man.

And to cap it all, a couple of emails from Julie at Odeon.

Definitely a 'Just Dusty' day lol..

I noted your point earlier, Carole, about people buying something else instead of 'Just Dusty' - in Morrisons, 'Just Dusty' was £9.99, while on the next shelf there was 'The Hits Collection' at £5. Having said that, the chart rating is a good sign :)

The CD was I think £7.65 in Tesco, so it's obviously good to shop around.....as long as you don't waste too much money in petrol!

HMV Oxford Street had copies in their new releases section but not the Dusty section! I agree with Carole there are so many compilations available with similar track listing, why can we have a compilation of the USA United Artists tracks, this period of Dusty's life is getting very rare on CD.

Bemused Tom 😞😞😞

JD is number 3 in Waitrose Abingdon this afternoon!! 🤔

They only seem to stock the top 20 albums?...wonder what they do with the ones that drop out of their chart? We have to remember Waitrose caters for the more 'mature' person!...why I was in there I don't know 😊😏😬

It's £7 odd in Tesco Angela 😊

Dusty was at number 12 in Morissons although i was in a silly mood, so now she's at number one 🙄

Neither can I, Liz, because at lunchtime I was in Morrisons and - oddly - precisely the same thing occurred. I saw the CD at No31, then when I was leaving, it seemed to have jumped into the No1 slot.

Truly mysterious.

Brian, Petula's collections normally get into the top 20 - the last couple did. Sadly there is not a big PR machine behind Cilla, Sandie or Lulu's '60's material.

Humboldt

Posted - 03/05/2009 : 23:47:18

Yes, and why dismiss Cilla, Sandie, Lulu and Petula like that? Let's just be really glad about Dusty.

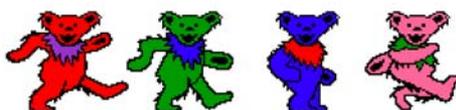

I've been listening to Sandie's BBC live sessions from the 80s. This CD is deleted but it's really, really good.

I too have been listening to Sandie's 'Cool About You' aka 'The BBC Sessions' and think it's most excellent. I adore her version of 'Any One Who Had A Heart'.

Humboldt

It's just Brian's sense of humour, it goes back to those days in the 60's when Dusty being higher than the other girls in the charts mattered greatly to us! And I guess it still does 😊

You see with me not having a particular favourite back then I was always delighted when one of 'my girls' climbed into the top 10. The same went for any Motown record. It was really tough for the ladies back then and for some of the great Motown acts too.

I agree of course but I'm a retro fan. These women were all great. It's a bit of a shame there was a feeling of competition back in the day. Wanting the few women out there to beat each other as if they didn't have it hard enough against the guys. I don't understand that but it's a nugget to think about!

It wasn't just that you wanted your favourite girl to do the best, it was the same with the groups. Hardly anyone was a Beatles AND a Stones fan. Competition is actually quite healthy as long as it's good competition. I have my favourite tennis players just as others have their favourite football teams, you want them to do well.

I was definitely a Stones fan but quite liked the Beatles too. I have lots of favourite tennis players, movie stars etc. If pushed I can usually pick a top favourite but I always feel that I'm letting my other favourites down. Does that make sense?

I wasn't dismissing Sandie, Cilla etc. My point was perhaps not explained properly. What I meant to say was the record company gets behind Dusty releases with tv advertising etc...especially on the various greatest hits sets. I cannot remember seeing any adverts for the others..there may have been? - but Dusty's back catalogue has been used over and over again - with successful results 🤝
