Will, stop teasing. Old people's hearts have been known to give out under such stress and I've already had my fair share today what with being to both Braehead & Dalmarnock! I know how to live don't I - lol!

Braehead? During the summer holidays? Are you AFF YER HEID? (and if I'd known you were going, I'd have asked you to pick up some frames for me lol)
(translation for those of non-Scottish descent: "aff yer heid" = "mad")

As for what is coming... soon, soon... ;)

I'd never been before and hopefully will never have to go there again. I had to pick up a loo seat from Porcelanosa. See I told you I know how to live.

OK, so I'll just have to be in suspenders for a while longer.

Something belonging to Dusty? How exciting! 🤩

Since this thread is in the 'Set My Dreams To Music' section, is it something music related, or is that a red herring?

Hmmm... something Dusty owned, music-related(?), and seen in pictures and videos with her?

There's lots of pictures of Dusty playing a guitar floating about, as well as videos... Am I getting warm Will? 😊

It might not have been a correct guess, but it was still a good guess :)

You asked -

>>Since this thread is in the 'Set My Dreams To Music' section, is it something music related, or is that a red herring?<<

No, it isn't a red herring. It has to do with a number of Dusty performances which were both photographed and televised..

What a fantastic find!... 🤩👍

...and the fact that CG could identify it, is equally fantastic. 😊🤩

I loved seeing Dusty dancin' in that very dress, and the pic with Tom Jones. 😊

It just goes to show, not everything has yet been discovered, and we can go on wishin and hopin that more stuff will turn up, as time goes on.

Well done to all concerned with passing on the news about this fabulous piece of Dusty memorabilia. 😊👍

No she didn't🙏 Will got a mail describing the dress they had found, and the dress from the Tom Jones Show was the one that immediately entered my head. I doubt they really expected to get a match so easily and good that we could help. Although Dusty had a lot of dresses made for her by Darnell, she also used to "borrow" from the costume departments of the TV companies, which is likely what happened with this dress. It's possible that designers also loaned them to her as well. For instance, the outfit she wore on the Shirley Bassey Show when she sang I'm Coming Home Again and Save Me, Save Me, was loaned from Ossie Clark. It's nice to think that this dress will now be displayed, rather than just hanging limply on a rack🙏

>>It's nice to think that this dress will now be displayed, rather than just hanging limply and on a rack<<

Yes indeed it is.

I was also struck, in reading the various emails I received from Phil and Diane, that they seemed genuinely thrilled to think they had found something which was once Dusty's - I think we can all empathise with that :)

Also, of all the gowns they must have which perhaps belonged to various celebrities and stars, this one means enough to them that they are going to give it pride of place as customers enter their store - that is quite a compliment to Dusty.

Is this not the same dress that Dusty wears on Rolf Harris show.....where she sings "knowing when to leave" and my fave "Up on the roof"?

Posted - 21/07/2009 : 13:07:10

Well spotted Graham, it certainly is. Both shows were in January 1971 but the only photo's I had were from "This Is Tom Jones". I think she possibly changed her necklace between shows, but I'd have to check on that one 😊 😊

Something has been bothering me since last night! I feel the dress I posted of Dusty in the dress, wasn't actually the very same as the one that's been found! The neck doesn't look the same for starters. Has anyone else noticed this?

We'd discussed this Cas, the braiding around the neck on the old version doesn't show up on the new photo, except at the back of the dress. Is that what you mean?

This is a quite miraculous find. To think that this dress has been hanging unnoticed and unloved for forty years and has now been identified as the treasure that it truly is...marvellous! It really does make you wonder what else is out there, though. Ooooooh.

And it's also brilliant that the mystery was solved by LTD - of all the Dusty experts they could have gone too, they came here. Just fantastic, and well done for the detective work. 🙏

What a lovely story! Such a pretty dress- how nice that it has survived. It's nice that the dress is being treated with such respect as well- a real feel good story!! Thank you for sharing it with us. Makes you wonder what else might be out there...

(There was me always thinking that all the outfits she performed in were owned by Dusty herself! 🙏 She would have needed a very large wardrobe! 🙏)

Cas, Will says that Diane did say to him that the purple and gold edging around the neck is still there but that it doesn't show up well in the photo. Maybe it's in need of an iron to flatten the edging out, or maybe it's just too delicate for an iron to go anywhere near it.

Hi Will,

Thanks for the great picture.

Just to let the members for the LTD forum know that we are currently restoring the neck of the dress.

When we found the dress the thread stitching the braid to the neck had rotten, meaning it wasn't securely held on. I have carefully removed the perished cotton and am currently in the process of restoring the braid as per the 1971 appearances.

We'll re-send a picture once the dress is back to it's former glory.

If you have any questions in the meantime, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Cheers,
Phil

Glad it helps, Cas; initially, I had also wondered if it was the same dress, that braiding round the neckline being the cause of my uncertainty.

This is so interesting. I love that after all these years things can still turn up. And it will be on view for all of us to see. I always said that if I won the lottery I would fund a Dusty Springfield Museum where all things Dusty could be housed. How nice of those folks to make this available.
