My partner and I take tango lessons on weekends, just social dancing, and it's really fun. They call it queertango, which means, we're many same-sex couples, but also straight couples who want to reverse roles, with ladies leading, and men following.

Last Saturday, I asked our teacher if I could borrow one of her electrotango CDs (really cool music) until the next day, and I could make her a CD in return. She asked me to burn something tango-able, or maybe ballads (which she loves), or jazz. And I thought "Dusty... Dusty... Dusty!" 🎵

So yesterday, she played a couple of songs from the Dusty CD I made for her!!! So we danced to Just a little lovin', The look of love, Come for a dream and Oh no! Not my baby. I had no idea you could tango to Dusty, but you can!

Tango-ing sounds great to Dusty!

When I get bored I make up Tap routines to Dusty hehe. But I'd love to learn to tango..but i'd lead 🎵

Queer tango LOL. At first I thought that pic was of you and Tove (c'mon and give us one)...and I thought, urm, Cor has gone all butch on us, but then I looked more closely. But how divine to have another excuse to listen to Dusty....and yet another idea for a compilation album.

Now what are you going to foxtrot to?

I used to go to Salsa classes, beginners of course. As the evening got more advanced everyone dropped out at their level until the end of the night when there was a "freestyle" session. It was amazing to watch the moves of the really good Salsa dancers.

Photographing is strictly forbidden while we stumble across the dance floor and over each others' feet. 🙄🙄

But now that I've been listening to Dusty with my mind on ballroom dance rhythms, it's amazing how many of Dusty's songs have a strict rhythm (which you need if you're not very experienced as a dancer 😊).

... if you can waltz to it, you can tango to it. 😊

That sounds like fun, Cor. "Come For A Dream" is a good one for that type of dancing. I can relate lots of Dusty songs with ballroom type dances. ....ok, one of my little fantasies is that I'm an olympic figure skater ...very big..& in my final competition for the gold..I skate to 'Doodlin' & maybe something like 'I Only want To Laugh'...The people love it! 🙄....the funny thing is that I can't skate very well & don't like to. 🙄 I often thought that I would love a job such as providing the music for events, films ect.

hmm, maybe we need a Dusty fantasy page?? ..or could that be trouble 😊

Mine's an internet find too. I think it's quite atmospheric and kinda glows. They are not only concentrating on dancing, but on each other as well 😊

Tango on!

RoB 😊
