We never used to get alot (violins)but I remembered a Thank your Lucky Stars book and asked my mum the other day to fish it out for me . Hopefully she's still got it as we are terrible hoarders but she hasnt found the DS album yet. The Springfields were in it and I remember a beautiful picture of Del Shannon. Anyway last night Cathy McGowan popped into my head and I think she was in it. I loved her. So I googled, well yahooed and found that she was in RSG. (i also found out that she is married to Michael Ball-well I didnt know that). Anyone with any info about the connection between TYLS and RSG, the date my book might have been, would be much appreciated and how Dusty and Cathy got on.If its already on this site forgive me and please direct me to the right place.

TYLS ran from 61-66 and RSG from 63-66, so I would guess your book is from 63 karenina, if the Springfields and Cathy McGowan are both in it.

Here is a link about the show.

thank you for that. Ive just been off the phone to my sister and we had a conversation that made me lead into this. Her mental block of our childhood is worse than mine but she remembered that we got the book when we went on some outing with the factory where my dad worked, probably Christmas. She remembered Dave Clark Five and Dusty Springfield in (OOPS LOST TRAIN OF THOUGHT COS THE CHILDREN JUST CALLED ME TO THE TELLY AS THE DAILY EXPRESS ADVERT CAME ON!)it. She was mad about Dave Clark. We used to add cuttings into it. I think I stuck Englebert over the Pretty Things-sorry pretty things.It would never sell on Ebay what with the extra pictures and the mouldy damp smell.Not that I would be that mercenary anyway. I still think Springfields were in it as well.

o dear does that mean I have to visit my mum to see if she has it. I might have to pass the church at Quex Rd - was that one of Dusty's. Big coincidently my mum and dad got married at Bromptom Oratory at Kensington but they got married down a side isle because she wasnt Catholic. Different time but still spooky -to me anyway.

Hows that for a Valentines Present!

there's more but I am babysitting so it will have to wait until the witching hour. Speaking of which Johnny Rivers was on the page opposite Dusty. And yes you can use anything you like on the Website but not from whom it came.

Sorry the scannings not very neat. If you want me to crop etc I can but not TONIGHT...i'm tired 😞 and wouldnt mind a bit of goony chat later. It was published in 1965. Cathy McGowan wasnt in it that must have just been wishful thinking. Englebert was stuck over Twinkle and I am very sorry Cilla and Cilla fans but the tremoloes were stuck over one of her pictures. I am just going to find out whatever happened to Twinkle and Francoise Hardy amongst others.
