The latest issue has now arrived in the UK and the US. Several comments are embedded in other threads but I thought it deserved its own, so let it rip.

I'll start us off by saying that even though the BBC DVD seems to have been a long time in the pipeline (I said seems 😊), to have a more or less definite date for release is really great. I know a lot of people on here came to Dusty in the 80's and later, but these shows really show her at the time when she was absolutely at her very best. I'm thrilled to be getting them in what will hopefully be top quality.

I've finished reading, and very much enjoyed, the interview with Stanley Dorfman which fits in well with news of the DVD. He had some great insights (especially with a little nudge) into what it was like to work with her on those shows and what struck me most was the way he kept on saying how charming, witty and funny she was because that's how I'll always remember Dusty from that time. Always knew her mind and stuck out for what she wanted in the shows too.

I usually try and stretch my Bulletin out over a week or so, so still some reading to do. But that doesn't mean I can't keep on looking at the pictures 📷

Mine came today, aint read it yet, but i saw our ad, we are so hot right now 😊

I like the cover and how the pink writing matches Dusty's dress 😊

So is this one of the three issues for £15 pounds as an annual thing? If I paid the annual thing would I get the issue that we are talking about?

Hi Laura,

I would say yes..you would get the latest issue due to the time between issues...but you may want to ask Paul Howes when you subscribe.

Paul will ask you which issue you would like to begin with. He's a very polite man. 😊

Btw, you can see a young Paul Howes (along with a young Dusty, and a young Gene Pitney) here: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BZkgncg8bo4>

I may change it yet again, but I do love that pretty profile with the lovely hair. The DSB issue is No.54 from November 2004 Clare. In it are the results from the Bulletin Poll which covered just about everything in Dusty's career, about 40 polls I think. And can I just mention here that "I Had a Talk.." came second in the ECUD poll! 😊 It lost out by two votes (186 to 188) to "That's How Heartaches Are Made".

I have a question that may or not be appropriate but I'll ask anyway. If its inappropriate you can all howl me down. I keep looking at the picture of Dusty with Elton John in the current bulletin and wonder why it was included as Dusty seems to have a very swollen face. I am aware of her history of difficult relationships--but is there some other story here--the picture seems to be from the mid 70s?

I think it's the make-up that makes her cheek look slightly out of proportion Kathy, nothing more sinister. She was wearing a lot of blusher and glitter on her cheeks as you can maybe see better in the colour version. Elton told a story of them being out in LA and Dusty rushing into a drug store to buy hairspray, which she almost used up on the way out of the shop. I often wonder if this was the occasion 😊

Thanks Carole, the picture is far better in colour and it is possible to see the glitter on Dusty's cheeks in the colour version. Much more normal looking. Thanks for posting it in colour, much appreciated.

I should mention Kathy, that the picture was used as part of the original article "I'm A Piece of Living History", (as were the others that were featured) it wasn't just that Paul chose it to accompany the article. Maybe you already knew that!
