I did get to Henley today and filled Dusty in with all the news about Katy etc... and bumped into the delightfully lovely Janice; we both added flowers! 🌷

A frosty start :

A warmer ending :

Cleaned the stone up :

The finished article :

Lit a candle in the church for you know who 😊 :

LTD flowers - unfortunately some were worse for wear due to a nasty frost overnight :

Found out where things were disappearing to... caught the culprit red handed trying to get away! Gave him a stern talking to!! 🤔🙄🙄 :

Whilst I was there cleaning and arranging etc. there were many people who came into the churchyard especially to visit Dusty's marker, many more than I normally see when I'm there (another Katy benefit?).

Two particular lots made me smile : One was a woman with her daughter (aged maybe 6 or 7 - the child that is not the mother!!!! 🤔) who stood on the pathway and the mother was telling the child about the marker being for Dusty and that this was the lady the woman who won the competition on telly last night was paying tribute to; the girl said the woman on the telly was good to which the mother replied that she was but nobody would ever be as good as the real Dusty! I thought that was sweet! 🙄

The other was a group of four who wandered over and, like many others have in the dustyspringfield.info/.../topic.asp?AR...

past, said how clean and tidy the marker was always kept and that there were always beautiful flowers there whenever they went past and always wondered who kept it all looking so lovely! I explained to them about the 'online communities', our flower fund and how we, as fans, always did our best to keep it all neat, tidy and cared for and with flowers on. They all said thank you and agreed that we were doing a wonderful job and that it was nice to know Dusty was being so well looked after! 🍀

It's moments like those that make all the effort worthwhile, to know that people appreciate what we all do! A pat on the back for all I think!! 🍀🍀

Thank you Bev. Love the little red squirrel. Nice touch!

Marty

PS, Is it just me, it looks as if Dusty's stone can use a little scrubbing with some bleach and water.

It all looks lovely Bev. How nice that people are visiting and that you could tell them about our on line community caring for Dusty's marker. The flowers look lovely and the stone very tidy. The flowers from the florist that we commissioned to put flowers there seem very nice but I wonder why she is not using Cor's prepared cards? Perhaps if someone goes next time we could check.

Thank you Bev and Janice, you are so kind to visit so often and take flowers on behalf of us all. I think we need someone stationed in Henley permanently to talk to the passersby at Dusty's marker 😊😊

Bev it looks wonderful and your words brought tears to my eyes, and the squirrel a smile back to my face. Thanks to all who do this lovely thing for Dusty.

Thank you Bev, and Janice too. I've been going backwards and forwards to London by train, so not been able to do my usual Henley detour. The flowers are lovely and the frost is a pain!

But you are making up for lost time, Clare, that's what matters.

My thanks also to Janice and Bev, and of course everyone who has contributed to the LTD flower fund.

Hi everyone.

Lovely to see you on Sunday Bev....and thankyou for providing photographic evidence that I too, had been to Dustys marker to lay flowers from us all!! (before I nipped off to the pub for coffee, unknowingly leaving you to scrub the stone!...The tap was frozen when I first got there, and I couldnt get any water..honest!!)
Thanks Bev, you did a great job of cleaning the marker 😊

Love to all.

It was lovely to see you too Janice! The tap water was frozen when I first got there as well but instead of nipping off for a hot coffee 🙄 I braved the cold weather, waited for the tap to thaw then scrubbed the stone a little cleaner and took photies!

I suppose I could have ahem neglected to mention you were there but I'm far too nice to do that to you!!!! 😊😊

Those pesky squirrels get everywhere... though I doubt Dusty would mind! 😊🐿

I've been wondering that, too. The cards should have arrived by now... Would be very nice if someone could check with the florist's.

I wrote to Nicola Barley who puts the flowers on the Dusty's marker for us and told her we loved her flowers and thanked her for looking after Dusty in our behalf so well. I also asked her about why she wasn't using our card. She apologized and said that she had asked her staff to use the cards, and they did last time, but this time she wasn't around and they must have forgotten. She said she will speak to her staff about using them. She also said that she will look forward to meeting any Let's Talk Dusty members who care to drop in on the 19th April. 😊
