Thanks for the photos in any case Mark, I've never seen inside one of Dusty's houses before!

LOVE MADS.

It's a pleasure Mads! 😊

I had quite a shock when walking along to no.38 to see the Wisteria was out of control!, plus another shock to find the House empty!.....I recieved a few bemused looks from Local's walking by, but I could tell that they knew why I was there!

Interesting photos Mark....I've never seen inside any of Dustys homes before either...I feel the urge to do a bit of pruning tho 😊

Thank you Mark.

Thank you Cas!.....yes, I know what you mean about pruning!, I wonder if the immediate neighbours are concerned about the encroaching Wisteria!

SCREW THAT!

Wisteria is ALWAYS better out-of-control!

I love what I see.

Thanks for the photos Mark, very interesting, especially the inside shots. I'm with Cas, the Wisteria is out of control, I've seen wisteria lift roof tiles and interfere with house foundations it's rampant stuff. It must look amazing in spring, but the rest of the time it needs severe pruning, it doesn't impede next year's flower production if done early enough. 😊
