Andy Murray

by pat.dunham » Fri Jun 28, 2013 4:49 pm

I just noticed, whilst waiting for match to start, that Andy has the Royal Marsden Logo on his left sleeve. It is nice to see a charity being sponsored rather than big money. Many may know that Andy's best mate, Ross Hutchins, is being treated by RM for leukaemia. I believe he donated his winnings of £372,000 from his recent Queens Club win to RM, in addition to money raised by the tournament.

Here's wishing Andy all the best and Ross a speedy recovery.

I'd rather see the world the way it used to be.....

..I'm goin' back.

Yes I saw Andy in the Charity match to raise money. It was quite a laugh as well as raising lots for the charities. Hats off to Andy for donating his winnings from the Queens tournament.

While I agree that this tournament has presented him with a fantastic opportunity, I certainly don't think it's now or never! He's only 26 years old and is playing some of his best tennis, with hopefully at least 5 more years at the top, if he remains healthy. The pressure of having to win will be more intense than ever...but lets go Andy, Super Scot! Your generous gesture was sheer class. Here's hoping your friend makes a complete and speedy recovery S.

Lynn, I am not sure who started this tweet but I really think you should check this out!

I have seen tweets from two newspaper sports writers who have spoken to Andy and asked him about this. He told them it is not true!

Andy already has done a huge amount for the Marsden and many other charities and I am sure he will do much much more. Bur why should he donate his winnings from Wimbledon?

Thanks for this information Donella, I'm shocked that someone could post this if it's not true. 😬
Hopefully I can find out where this originated from and follow it up.

Yes I think it is someone maybe mischief making!

I certainly has not been reported in any of the mainstream media, so I think we should take it that it is not true.

I have been unable to trace back the originator of this tweet which is in itself rather strange 🤔

If anyone else has any joy with it I would love to know. 🤔
