It's been over 11 years there's still not a day goes by that I don't think of her or listen to her music and still if I look at pictures of her and read articles or quotes I still get tears in my eyes as if she has only just gone away.

I still can't believe that she has truly gone and that she will never record another song.

How many people feel this?

Hello there!

I think you'd be hard-pressed to find anyone here who doesn't feel the same.

her voice, her heart and strength of character still have such a presence.

it is very sad- I think we'd all like the opportunity to let her know what her music has meant- and still means to us. BUT...life continues...and the music, and the memories are still here.

As long as they persist, Dusty's still here with us, as well.

Hi ,

I think this is the reason I just recently joined the forum: to connect with other Dusty Fans who feel the same way.

Looking forward to chatting with all of you and attending Dusty Day on May 1.

Cheers,

al14

Hello, I'm a Dusty newbie. Although I was constantly reading posts I have only been a member since July. I think you will enjoy it. My impression is that the forum has really nice, respectful, informative members. In fact, I think this forum is about the nicest group of ever been on. These folks really respect Dusty's memory. I think you will enjoy it.

Hi,

Lovely to see several new members here. You're all very welcome!

That, if nothing else, is proof that Dusty still touches people, and as long as that happens, she's not really gone. 🌹 📱 🌹
