Dusty Brick - Liverpool

by Chris66 » Fri Sep 14, 2012 2:39 pm

I was in Liverpool for a few days and sure enough there is a Dusty brick on the wall of fame across from the Cavern Club. I did not spot it on my previous visit. Had a great night at the Cavern as well - a group called the Shakers playing all the early sixties stuff. Amazed at the number of teens and twenties there - and they all knew the words !!!

Cheers

Chris

Sounds like fun, Chris!

Do you have any pics?

That sounds like a blast Chris.

Around here if it's a teens and twenties club there's sure to be someone looking to kick an old guy's ass. 🤔

I tried to take a photo a year or so ago but I only had my camera phone and it was too high up to get a good shot. I think Carole R took a photo at some point and posted it on here. It just says Dusty, no surname.

Don't get too excited. folks. The "Dusty" brick refers to a band, not our Dusty. Viper posted about it on this thread back in August:

I hadn't seen Viper's post previously but it makes a lot of sense to me that the brick doesn't refer to our Dusty. No surname is odd when everyone else has got one, and Dusty (at least solo) never appeared there. The Echoes are on the wall and when I mentioned it to Douggie, he confirmed that Dusty hadn't appeared there with them. We do know that she visited in the early days but there doesn't seem to be any record of a performance.
