Dusty and her Peoples, Autographs. (#p2170)

by Carole R. » Thu Jan 14, 2010 11:34 am

I started an Autograph thread on the 'Whats It Gonna Be' forum...

However, I asked (for the purpose of the thread, didn't want them to get lost)) not to include reports of Dusty autographs or Dusty Peoples autographs.

So, this thread is the one dedicated to:

Any Autographs of Dusty?

Any Autographs of the people we associate with her?

Ta muchly,

I'm so envious of all the Dusty stuff you managed to hang onto Cas, how could I have been so casual with what I had and where I left it? Every time we met Dusty, it was what we did, we asked for yet another autograph and she never declined. I know this is difficult to spot (actually probably impossible 😞) but the photo was taken on the train (probably by Cas) on the way back from Liverpool and there is an autograph on the poster somewhere!

This one is signed on the inside cover of one of my photo albums from the time. They are so old now that the photos are starting to get a little damaged. I want to take them out and put them in a new album, but I can't bring myself to do it as I know Dusty touched the book, looked at the photos and signed her name.

Ummm! Jeffery these shows are so hard to remember some 40 odd years on! She was at the Talk of the North in Eccles Manchester. She probably sang her hits, and 'Shake', also 'La Bamba'. People who think your memories can't be taken from you are wrong! All the shows seem to roll into one after all this time, with little bits of different memories from time to time. Carole was there she may recall something, she not quite as bad as I am.

This weekend I saw a copy of the photo I posted earlier signed "from Fatty". This particular photo had actually belonged to Dusty and she had written a little note on it saying (from memory) "I like this one". Talk about contrary Mary 😏😊

I'd say I got the autograph sometime in late 1967. Dusty was one of the most generous singers when it came time for her fans. I never heard of her ignoring her fans and she spent a lot of time signing autographs, posing for pictures, and responding to questions or requests. She was incredibly generous with me and never knew where I'd show up! Hotels, recording studios, TV shows, concerts, nightclubs, speaking with her on the phone...it was all sublime!

Are there photos of you with Dusty? One might make a nice avatar for you, "Eddie" ;-)

Alas, i was never one for toting around a camera to capture thoses special moments. (Yes, I know...shame on me!!! Bad fan! Bad fan!) I have some photos of Dusty and I at her LA party, but they are on a photographers proof sheet and will not work here. I have another photo of Dusty and I at the Greek Theater when i presented her with her roses at the end of her performance. The pic has been around the web and was used in New York Magazine. Alas I do not have a good copy for uploading.

Poor "Eddie"...he fell into an obscure and monastic life in the hills of Tuscany where he has been for many decades leading a choir of Fransican monks translating Dusty Springfield classics into gregorian chant! Seriously, there comes a time in one's life when childhood names are dropped. No one in my family ever called me "Eddie". It came from a childhood friend and it stuck around through high school. I stopped using it many years ago.

I have nowhere near enough photo's considering all the meetings, it often felt intrusive and heck, I didn't even have a decent camera! I thought I would post the picture of you presenting Dusty with flowers Edward, hope you don't mind.

Dusty Springfield returns.

👍 Marvelous ! 🎭

Where is this ?

Would it be Drury Lane, or RAH ?

Neither, as Edward says above Jeffery, he presented Dusty with roses at the Greek Theatre.
