Dusty and the Beatles (#p189325)

by wally » Sun Jul 15, 2018 7:45 pm

They appeared together several times especially in the RSG days. And apart from You Cant Do That, I don't ever remember Dusty singing a Lennon and McCartney song.....when there were so many. To my mind she never recorded one either.....unless someone can jog my memory?

Hi Wally

We did 'Yellow Submarine' in the 'Merry King Cole' panto at Liverpool Empire 1965/66. I will have a think if there were any more..

Well, Dusty seems to have loved American music to such an extent that it never would have occurred to her to dip into her fellow Brit-artists' songbooks - of course she recorded a number of original songs by British songwriters.

How good would she have been on The Long and Winding Road!

She did sing Smokey Robinson song that she liked the miracles singing and I hope the Beatles version too

You really got a hold on me..

A loose connection but a great song. 😊

I agree with you, Carole, Dusty would have sung The Long and Winding Road beautifully. It's a sad, sweet song that might have appealed to her. What do you think?

I'm surprised Neil, it's done the rounds now and then. That's my sister next to Douggie, she came to Dusty events occasionally 😊 Moira is in there too.
