

Let's Talk Dusty!

The Ultimate Forum for Dusty Springfield Fans

Skip to content

Advanced search

Dusty and The Shades of the 60s

Post a reply

5 posts • Page 1 of 1

Dusty and The Shades of the 60s (#p188204)

by wally » Tue Mar 20, 2018 11:58 pm

Avoid...Avoid ...Avoid....it is a holiday camp show that is touring the country claiming to be a tribute to Dusty. Emily Clark is more Bet Lynch than Dusty and although a good singer an insult to a legend...AVOID....I wish I had

Attachments

\(./download/file.php?id=32785&mode=view\)

Top

Re: Dusty and The Shades of the 60s (#p188205)

by Dougie » Wed Mar 21, 2018 2:17 am

Hi Wally

I keep saying the same avoid all these kind of shows.

They just don't get it. Near enough or close enough is NOT GOD ENOUGH!!

They have no idea about her life, her soul or how she would approach singing a song.

Good singers and bad wigs don't cut it.

IT IS ALL ABOUT THE MONEY!!!!

That's what I have gathered from all of them.

This is not right, that's not right, but people still get suckered into going because they mentioned Dusty.

I have read on the site about many so called Dusty shows, with people trying to convince others that they must see this particular show because so an so wrote it who had no real knowledge of Dusty but who said that Dusty was a close personal friend of theirs.

(Close personal friends wouldn't and didn't write anything, trust me!)

or maybe what's her name sang in other stage shows or even had a picture taken with Dusty.

Of course having a picture with her makes you an expert in everything Dusty.

I will just say "SAVE YOUR MONEY" go to the shop and buy a copy of all Dusty's DVD's which are out there, they are then yours forever to see when you want.

At no charge, and you get the real thing. Singing, looking, sounding and acting like Dusty as she was!! Recordings and re-released records are the same. Most Dusty supporters will have almost everything she ever recorded, and I don't think that there will be many recordings they do not already have. There may be some of her television shows she appeared in that may come up once in a while.

Which is great when they do. I know that I have always wanted "Dusty at the Talk of the Town" to be shown again, however not too sure if there is a copy anywhere. Unless Stanley Dorfman (Who directed the show) has a copy somewhere, which would be great as it showed Dusty at her best.

Tribute and other Dusty shows are just about people trying to make Money..

Please try and remember this.

 Dusty

Top

Re: Dusty and The Shades of the 60s (#p188208)

by daydreamer » Wed Mar 21, 2018 10:10 am

The Talk of the Town show is like the Holy Grail for many Dusty fans I would think Duggie but alas, as far as I know, it's never turned up. As for the Dusty tribute shows that travel the country, they were rare before Dusty died but her legendary status now means they are two a penny. I recently caught part of a young womans act in a local bar in Tenerife, not a place we normally go in, but it was 'Dusty' and so we popped in towards the end of the evening for 'a nightcap'. She could put a song across, looked nothing like Dusty, apart from the eye make-up, the frock was ok, the wig wasn't but what struck me was she was telling Dusty's story inbetween songs. Not in great depth obviously but she talked about South Africa and about Motown and her 80's and 90's years and that bit impressed me. She basically entertained the holiday crowd and reminded those who didn't know, that Dusty had more to her than her spectacular voice.

Top

Re: Dusty and The Shades of the 60s (#p188209)

by wally » Wed Mar 21, 2018 12:34 pm

Thanks Duggie for your commentsyou are so right and I appreciate you taking the time to write

Top

Re: Dusty and The Shades of the 60s (#p188266)

by humboldt » Tue Mar 27, 2018 10:15 pm

As far as I am aware we have reached the end of the road with regard to any more unreleased recordings 🙄

Top

Display posts from previous: Sort by

Post a reply

5 posts • Page 1 of 1

Return to You Set My Dreams To Music

Jump to:

Who is online

Users browsing this forum: No registered users and 5 guests

Powered by phpBB® Forum Software © phpBB Group :: Style: L_Antre