Dusty - back in the charts again ! (#p120815)

by Brian » Sun May 12, 2013 6:47 pm

For some unknown reason SOAPM has returned to the UK singles chart this week - as a new entry at 75.

Has it been used for an advert?...or perhaps sung on 'The Voice' ?

Whatever the reason - it's back where it belongs!

Lovely Stuff. There's also an ad here in the States (Macy's) featuring Windmills of your Mind, but it's not Dusty. I don't know who it is but I do know that it's not a patch on Dusty's version.

I do believe Keith Michell had a number one with windmills of your mind a few decades ago. The version Dusty sings is,of course,far superior and very moving.How wonderful it would be to see Dusty storming up the charts again.

This version sounds like a young female. I need to do some research to satisfy my curiosity, and then perhaps write to the Macy's Marketing people and suggest they do themselves a favor.

Eva Mendes is singing Windmills. Like I said not a patch on the Lady.

🤔 Noel Harrison sang WOYM on The Thomas Crown Affair soundtrack & his version reached #8 in the UK after the song's Oscar win at the same time Dusty's version was hovering outside the US Top 30. It seems as if Philips UK wasn't very gung-ho about issuing Dusty's US recordings: it's hard to believe the Brits who purchased the version by Noel - who sings better than his pop but not much - wouldn't have opted for Dusty's version given the choice. It's curious Dusty had such a peripheral US hit with WOYM considering the promotional push that Jerry Wexler reportedly gave the track - that Dusty herself doesn't seem to have been enthused enough about WOYM to have personally given it much if any promo likely factored into the track falling short of its hit potential. And while I understand Dusty's fans preferring to hear her version it's not as if Macy's has had Eva Mendes cover a song which Dusty herself was in any evident way territorial about.

The Thomas Crown affair with the late great and very gorgeous Steve McQueen, was a pretty good film, but would have been even better with Dusty doing the vocals. Like I said they all pale in comparison

I believe Sarah was interested in who was singing WOYM in the Macy's ad & that singer has been ID'd as Eva Mendes.

As for this performance by Danielle Milo accounting for SOAPM's recent UK chart run - is The Voice Israel airing in the UK? Also is it politically incorrect to light-heartedly suggest that Danielle should be singing Son of a Rabbi?

Ah, Macy add, O.K., must have miss-read 🤔

Didn't know The Voice was coming out of Israel, I don't watch it, but it was just the newest U-Tube entry for SOAP. Pot luck, took the chance 😊

Even I can't always be right. 🤔

Always nice to see Dusty making an appearance in the charts somewhere in the world.

This week Hits Collection climbs 20 places from 79 to 59 in the album charts in Ireland.

(I think possibly due to re-showing of recent Irish TV documentary)
