Dusty on American Bandstand (#p106261)

by mnmcv1 » Fri Nov 09, 2012 6:06 am

Has anyone posted this yet??? If I'm not mistaken, Dusty's first ever US TV appearance, singing "Stay Awhile" on American Bandstand (with intro and then interview with Dick Clark).

[youtube]http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fMcRQ-Ur1ko[/youtube]

she's demure but charming in the interview; when Dick mentions the Beatles and she jokingly says "who?", well... 🤔👍

Thank you, thank you, thank you Markus for being the first to spot this! 🙏 Never been seen before by me and likely most others in the UK, and it's in such great quality! This is how I remember Dusty from those early days, coy, funny and so happy. There are so many photo's of her in that dress but I can't think of any other footage that we have of her wearing it. And it just put a great big smile on my face. So thrilled to see it, it's just wonderful and I don't mind the lip sync, not one bit 😊

The essence of FAB ness 😊

Shyness comes across in a charming way in the early 60's

Thankyou so much for this Markus.. 🙌

This video transports me back to another time,another place and practically another Planet!! 🙌

It's so good to see Dusty at her amazing, shy, yet humorous best. 😊

..and the Spector-like ' Stay Awhile ' is a song we don't hear too much either. 🎵

Thanks again,

Carole R xx

you guys have no idea how happy I was when I stumbled upon this clip.

I'm positively chuffed! (hope I'm using that expression correctly... 😊)

@Frans- I'm always holding out hope for more.

I've never seen any of Dusty's Dinah Shore appearances, or Mike Douglas.

Her 1973 appearance on the Tonight Show, where she might have sang "Mama's Little Girl" (if I recall correctly).

I never thought I'd see her 1980 appearance on the John Davidson Show, but it's on youtube. and those RAH performances that were cut from the broadcast!

The holy grail of live footage for me is still "I Wanna Be Where You Are" from the Lulu special. 🙏

Late to the party but still thrilled to see this, Markus.

It put a HUGE smile on my face, much needed on what has been a bad day so far.

There's something about her that is so charming, so charismatic. Not just the interview but the little waves and flirtatious gestures when she sings. There are no words. And there will never be another.

Thank you again, Markus.

Thanks for sharing the clip, and I would also love if those lost 70s/80s performances would surface - especially Lulu!
