If you check out Simon's site, you'll see he's added maps, hotels and stuff and also added two new DD guests....Lavinia Rogers who sang backup with Simon and Vicki Brown at the RAH, and her sister Clodagh. If you don't know who SHE is, Google her!

OMG!!.....The legendary Clodagh Rogers as well!

Clodagh was very popular in Britain late 60's/early 70's, with her own TV show, and representing us in the Eurovision song contest in '71 with 'Jack in the box'.

Her legs were her most famous feature, I recall reading that they were heavily insured, I have one of her 60's albums, come the weekend I'll attempt to scan the two photos of Clodagh on it.....she was quite something back then!

I just caught up with this and saw your gesture Mary. That's such a lovely thing to do and I'm sure between them, Nancy and Clare will come away with a little treasure for you.

And a Clodagh Rogers fix from 1971 😊

Is anyone driving to the Ealing venue or been there before? If I can get to DD it looks like I may well have to come by car 🚗 which could turn out to be a bit of a pain as the parking facilities look pretty grim around the area!

Maybe you could drive somewhere and then catch the tube? It's not far from the tube station.

The parking situation at the Venue is something I've been wondering about too!.....I'm unsure if the pub has it's own car park, but on many residential roads near Stations the parking restrictions don't apply on Sunday which may be true of the roads surrounding Finnegans Wake.....we're just gonna take a chance anyway!

I'll have to check into parking elsewhere and getting the tube although I've not been overly keen on using the tube since my neighbours' son was attacked, beaten and robbed in a tube station about a year ago... it makes me a wee bit nervous!!

I'll also check out the Ealing Centre car park and anywhere else I can find!

To be honest I can't remember which station it was now but I do know everyone else just stood and watched then got on their trains and left him laying unconscious on the platform!! Even when I'm with other people I still feel a bit edgy on the underground system!

Most of the tube lines to the West of Central London are in the open air, there shouldn't be any probs safety wise, but there is a lot of engineering work going so it's best to check any dates of travel at the TFL (Transport for London) website.

Another way to get from Central London to Ealing Broadway very quickly is by main-line from Paddington, on some routes Ealing Broadway is the first stop!.....all open-air too!, but as with the tube, check the GWR (Great Western railway) website for any works.

How exciting, and good to see you back. Funny cuz I was thinking of you last night when I watched a youtube Dusty video you had posted.

If you will be in the area, some of us are meeting up in Henley on Saturday, and then of course meeting up for Dusty Day on Sunday. If you want to connect iwth some other LTD fans, let us know or send me an email.

Cheers.

I drove into Ealing today to check out how easy it would be to drive & park there on DD - I think I may just risk the train from somewhere... it's a total mare of a place in a car!! Don't suppose anyone else going lives down in the South East?!?!?

Whilst there I also popped along to Kent Gardens... does anyone know which number Dusty lived at or whether the houses are still the same ones??

South Ealing Station (Picadilly)is overground from Hammersmith. Once outside you can catch a 65 bus to Ealing Broadway on the same side as you come out of the station and it takes you pass the venue. No more than 10 minutes. The 65 terminates at Ealing Broadway and goes all the way to Kingston via Richmond if that is any use?

Just found an interesting website here www.Ealing-web.com giving lot's of info about the area, click 'contents' then 'Pubs', then 'Ealing Broadway', and there's many pictures of the numerous venues including Finnegans wake, plus areial photos too!

Plus there seems to be some good stores in Ealing too, Marks & Spencer, Evans.....wonder if there's any 'Sock-shop'?!.....LOL!!

I got to know the area quite well last year... and apart from all that, Paddington is the name of the suburb that my parents live in in Sydney!! I feel like I'm going home!!... sorta!! LOL!! 🙏 😊

Some updates on Dusty Day from Simon Bell...

They are nearing capacity, so if you know people who plan to attend, please encourage them to book a ticket ahead. It's hard to imagine anyone would be turned away, but better safe than sorry!

Madeline & Simon will be singing both separately and together, as will hopefully Kay Garner. The performances will be different this year as they are all live with piano accompaniment*, nothing on backing track.

*Jonathan Cohen!

Has anyone seen the little pill box that will be up for auction on DD? Check Simon's site. It's been donated by Madeline and is engraved from Dusty. Serious money I would think. Pat told me she has some things of Dusty's too, including some Carmen rollers!

You can take a look at the pillbox here. It's so pretty. I hope it fetches a pretty penny for the Marsden.

What exactly are Carmen rollers? Are they what we called brush rollers, Carole? OMG what a hoot to own hair rollers by Dusty! Pat should auction them off one by one.

Here's Britain's most famous 'wearer of the curlers', Coronation Street's Hilda Ogden! Hilda would never have been able to afford 'Carmen' ones, being electrically heated, but when her character left the series after 23 years all her neighbours clubbed together bought her a set as a leaving present!

Very comprehensive website about Clodagh Rodgers at www.ClodaghRodgers.com there's also a brief mention of RAH on the page dedicated to her sister Lavinia.

Having had such a great time at Dusty Day 2004, I would like to say how good it was of Simon Bell to take up the mantle and ensure that Dusty Day will continue. I am sure he has gone to lots of effort to get this organized.

Best wishes for a great Dusty Day 2007. I hope it is a great success with lots of money to The Royal Marsden.

My friend's Dad is mates with Eoin Cameron and my friend reckoned that Eoin comes to Dusty Day, but she wasn't quite sure. Is that true? How awesome if he did!

I don't think Eoin Cameron has been to Dusty Day Clare, it's certainly never been mentioned, though I know he's run his own version on the radio in Oz.

Ms P made contact with me telepathically yesterday, and asked me whether a champagne reception was arranged along with a red carpet for her. She also added that, being a modest woman-pig, she wouldn't mind if the limo was pink or white.

I just told her, yeah yeah, don't worry, so pleeeaaazze make sure this is taken care of, or there'll be hell to pay when she gets her little trotters on me...

Here's a photo of last year's Ms P Day where she was supported by Simon Bell. You can also see her biggest fan Laura. 😬 Great pic. More importantly, will Ms P actually be in London!!!!

I can't believe I will be tomorrow night. Clare and I will be taking separate cabs. LOL.
Laura please do not be drunk on the floor by the time we get there, or if you are, have Creach get the door, would you?
