Judging by the amount of exclusive Dusty compilation albums and CDs released in Japan I assume Dusty was and is very popular there.

I know from Paul Howes' book that Dusty visited Japan for 3 weeks in 1967 to do 15 TV appearances. I have never seen clips of any of these though, has anyone else?

Also I was wondering did Dusty visit Japan as a result of her existing popularity there or was the 1967 visit intended to launch her career in the country?

Anything you have about Dusty in Japan I'd love to know.

I do have a copy of 'You Don't Have to Say You Love Me'/ECUD on orange vinyl in Japanese. The lettering, I mean, not Miss Dusty singing in Japanese. 🇯🇵 I'll have to

I bet she could have managed it though, Taylor, given half the chance!

Do you have the most stunning Dusty vinyl collection in the known universe or what, Taylor? 😊

You're right Josh, they were all taken during Dusty's 1967 trip to Japan, I think we had a photo thread on that once. She arrived to a big reception and news conferer she was already a big star there. As Clive says, it's difficult to find anything about that trip other than the batch of photo's we saw at the time. There is a photo of Du with the word Glico in lights behind them. I believe that Glico was (is?) a major food/candy company, so they were possibly the sponsor. As for seeing any footage, I

Clive, the 2nd one you posted, almost looks like the back of an album cover or centrefold of a book but I can't find it on Ebay. If you still have the link, can you post

I have a Japanese gatefold album called Dusty Springfield Custom Deluxe. The cover is hardback in a reddish orange colour and there is an oval cut out with this picture

It has the words to the songs translated inside and as with all translations, they don't quite read right!

I also have this single with the words on the back. The translation of Yesterday When I Was Young has some corks. The short haired photo's were obviously all ta necklaces or dress and the one stood in front of a brick wall with a cheap looking hanging plant, makes me wonder at the imagination of the photographer!

 DUSTY SPRINGFIELD

■ YOU DON'T HAVE TO SAY YOU LOVE ME

When I said I needed you
 You said you'll always stay
 It wasn't me who changed, but you
 And now you've gone away

Don't you see that now you've gone
 And I'm left here all on my own
 Then I have to follow you
 And beg you to come home.

You don't have to say you love me
 Just be closing in
 You don't have to stay forever
 I will understand.
 Believe me, believe me
 I can't help but love you
 But believe I will never tie you down.

Left alone with just a memory
 Life seems dead and so unreal
 All that's left is loneliness
 There is nothing left to feel.

(Refrain)

■ YESTERDAY WHEN I WAS YOUNG

Some how it seems the love I knew
 It always the most destructive kind
 Yesterday when I was young

The taste of life was sweet
 As rain upon my tongue
 I teased life as it were a foolish game
 The way the evening breeze made tease
 A candle flame
 The thousand dreams I dream
 The splendid things I pray
 I always built to last a week in shifty sand
 I live by night and shamble naked lighter day
 And only now I see how the time run away
 Yesterday when I was young
 So many loving songs were waiting to be sung
 So many wild pleasures, lands stop for me
 And so much pain, my eyes refuse to see
 I and so fasted time and you, the last when all
 I never stop to think when life grows all about
 And every conversation that I can now recall
 Concerned itself with me, and nothing else that's all
 The game of love I played with arrogance and pride
 And every flame I let too quickly quickly die
 The friends I made, all somehow seem to slip away
 That's only now I am let alone to him to blame

There are so many sorrows on me
 There won't be song
 I feel better taste of tears upon my tongue
 The time has come for me to pray for
 Yesterday when I was young

Carole, that Yesterday When I Was Young translation is priceless. Although I see no reason why lands shouldn't stop for her!
