In 1965 Dusty recorded three clips for a 10 minute ABC show called Pop Spot and I don't think that I've ever seen the whole show in it's full state since. There have been stills, and one or other of the clips have turned up on YouTube and other places (including the new Once Upon a Time DVD). But here it is in full, with Dusty introducing each song and starting with a short interview in her poshest voice 🎤

What a gem of a find, Carole!..
I enjoyed every second of it, especially the 'talkie bits'... 😊👍

Thankyou,

CR xx

thanks Carole..I enjoyed that clip.
I thought it interesting that she said her first interest was to be an actress and that if she was a man ..a priest.

You're all welcome 😊 I know some of the songs had been on YouTube but I never heard the speaking parts before and it's always lovely to hear her talk.
And yes Paula, I heard the part about the priest too! I had heard her talk before about wanting to be an actress first and I think she said she changed her mind because she thought it would be easier to be a singer. She could have been both, but I'm glad she sang 😊

What a voice - I mean Dusty's speaking voice! Thanks very much, Carole!

It amazes me that such treasures re-emerge just like that. I think Dusty must be up in Heaven and every now and then she gets a bit excited and throws a little treasure out of the window for us!

Brilliant stuff Carole - many thanks! So "quaint" and so very sixties' television and one of my favourite Dusty "looks" as well as the music! Good to be logging on again - over the summer we've had two weddings, two funerals and a holiday to deal with - it has taken me some time to catch up with what's been happening!

yes very sixties, & very basic but then how many people even had tv sets then, not alot, except if you were very posh of course!
abc (now called itv) also made 'thank your lucky stars' which dusty was on repeatedly around the same time but nearly all those shows, specially with dusty on, got destroyed to save money, so we have to be very grateful for fantastic bits like this.

I've not seen the whole of the finished DVD Cas, but I believe Colouring Book is included. I doubt the whole of Pop Spots is being used in the extras but not sure, haven't seen a full listing anywhere.

Thank Carole, I'm pleased that some of it will be used if not all. I remember the interview...almost word for word as Dusty says it!

Thanks Carole.A gem.

So good to see and the 3 songs display her unique talent so well.

Dusty was quite middle class and cetainly spoke very posh in those days with a wonderful"clipped" accent.

I also love the way she says "and I particularly did not want to do that" in the interview at the airport following her return from south Africa.very posh!

Great find Carole, I've seen this before ages ago. So nice to see it again. Dusty at her very best! Nice to hear Dusty's speaking voice too, which also always was music to my ears. It's exactly how I remembered it to be.

Love these 60's clips..it really takes me back to those days.

Her speaking voice changed quite abit over the years and its always a pleasure to listen to her.

Great clip! Thanks, Carole, for posting. I love the bit where D is going from Coloring Book to Can I get a Witness and says it's time for something a bit more "yeah!" I haven't heard "yeah" used much in this way. Was it in use a lot in UK among D's fans? As a bit of 60s slang would it have had anything to do with the French yeah yeah singers like Francoise Hardy or Sylvie Vartan?

"she loves you yeah,yeah,yeah,yeah." could have been a bit of the Beatles influence as well at this time as we were all going Beatle mad, Annie. 😊

Thanks, Liz. Was that an expression you recall being used a lot in the way D used it in the clip? That is, was it used a lot by teens? The way Dusty uses in the PopSpot clip surprised me. Of course, I loved it! It was so "yeah"!
