Carole R. Where am I going? 3 stars

Posted - 29/11/2009 : 17:18:39

I'm hoping that this doesn't come over as morbid... But its really just for conversational purposes and no harm is meant.

I'm thinking, assuming she was still with us, if you were to buy Dusty a Christmas Present what would you buy?

Please remember she already has a Boxing Nun and the Spector Christmas Album.

I would take her to dinner at the Elm Park Inn, a restaurant near where I live here in Staten Island, NYC. It's the same place where, in the 1950's, when my uncles owned it as Cap's Terrace Room, they threw Buddy Rich and his manager out.

They threw Buddy Rich out! 🤔

I think I'd give Dusty something very simple... just a little something from Tiffany's or thereabouts. 😊

Don't ya mean the Exciters Greatest HIT, Brian?...🤔😊

I'm thinkin' along the cd lines myself though..Maybe 'The Motown 50 Love' Anniversary cd.

Dusty's 'Baby' has reached fifty yrs old, and STILL handles the test of time.

No - I mean The Exciters greatest HITS!

'Tell him'

'He's got the power'

'Do wah diddy'

'Get him'

'Blowin' up my mind'

and 'You better come home'

Perhaps not in every country of the world!...but a great album anyway!

I think it would have to be a signed photo of me so that she could return the favour.😁

For starters, maybe a iPod loaded with all kinds of fab music. And some Bose speakers to go with it. A nice laptop computer too.

You'd have to get it from a rescue, though, Cas. : -)

What do you buy for the woman who has everything? A dozen red roses, followed by a trip to the american ice-cream parlour along Edgeware Road. Alternatively, any music she likes from Amazon 😊

A ticket home , she would then know how much she has been missed, and how much we all love her songs. 😊😄

So many great presents here. Had a hard time to think of one. I would love to take her out to a lovely dinner at a nice restaurant.

What about a time machine to bring her back. One that only can be set to happy memories and of course the four times I saw her and also including Mary's wonderful day.

hmm, I think I'd like to take a little from all of the above....

an ipod with a well thought out playlist...played while having dinner..maybe I would invite a few of you...ok all of you. But I think it would be Jeffrey's gift that would be the best of all.

Now that Christmas is almost here, do you all have any revised or new ideas for a gift for Dusty?

Cas, I too, would get Dusty a kitten with green eyes, just like hers. A little girl kitten. I'd get her either a little red one, or a fluffy little calico. I think Dusty would want something that she could love and would love her in return. I would hope she would call her "Dusty, too, 2, II"whatever 😊

Maybe I'd get her a gato from PR. She always liked strays.

I think an enormous hug would be in order, and a pretty necklace. Or some fabulous clip on earrings! All silver, of course. 😊
