We all know dear Dusty was "short sighted" but does anyone know how much....20/?? Did she also have astigmatism?

Any other details about her glasses, sunglasses, etc. Did she ever wear contacts (she told Dame Edna no). In here everyday life did she wear glasses often?

Okay, time to roll out those spectacles pics.

Well it's all right to go on and live your life, so come out into the light....

La eyeworks named a frame they made after Dusty.

She mostly wore them when watching movies or TV, and really never cared for them....or, she'd sit on the floor but 3 feet from the TV.

Glasses, well, they'd hide her eyes...you see.

Are they tinted? The look to be in the pic with Duggie but not the other one.

How about some pics of Dusty in sunglasses?

Big isn't it? A lot of my pics have been looking fuzzy when I post them and I'm wondering if it's because I'm re-sizing them. Anyway, I know it's the bigger the bettahh for you Nancy Mads I am sooo glad you actually get my sense of humour!

The other thing, is the temples would usually get broken and she'd simply hold them up to her face rather than fix or replace them...she really really wasn't into them....and, it was the perfect excuse for her to not recognise people "Oh, I didn't see you!" and just between you and me, it was a great way to get away with making faces at her from across the room....

When I knew Dusty in the early 70's, she wore those tinted aviator glasses - completely intact! And, she wore them a lot. Blind as a bat! 🙄

Oh, heavens, Nancy.... that was 34 years ago!!! If I think about it I'd say she had 2 pairs - one with a rosy tint and the other pair were yellowish... but, hell, I could be confusing her with someone else. 😊

Those aviator glasses were a fashion and social statement. Very...urm...Billie Jean King - womens tennis curcuit....kinda like pinky rings for guys...which later evolved into...that clone look...polo shirts! It's the only period where you can find a lot of pictures of her, in glasses.

I drove around with her - at night - on the freeway and everything else, and she wasn't wearing any glasses at all....

That was exciting! 😊

Sorry, Nancy - don't have any. 😞

However, Dusty was a bad enough driver with her glasses on - without them I'd probably had ended up like Jayne Mansfield - smack dab into the back of an 18-wheeler. 🤪

Fortunately for all concerned, I did most of the driving and I didn't need glasses back then. 😊

She didn't even have a drivers license in 1983 - but - one day, she got one and I offered to teach her to drive my stick, Rover TC2000, but she refused "Oh no...I'll destroy the transmission, but thanks!". I did all of the driving - and a lot of it....until 1987, when she was given a station wagon for awhile...then, she was driving...and at one point, picked up a dog that had been hit by a car on the freeway with it.

The sunglass pixs are the best!

The only time I distinctly remember seeing her on TV, when I could tell she couldn't see - was when she was on The Jools Holland Show.

It could be that her eyes got better with age though - in your 40's they can start going bad - the opposite way, so, they can improve..

Whatever the case, she was functional without them in the 80's.

We drove far, on the freeways, everything - night...but, I remember co-piloting and asking "are you *sure* you don't want me to drive???" but she was determined....in fact, what she REALLY wanted was her own RV to drive around....so...the station wagon was practice!

She did a perfect job.

Go figure.

I imagine being sober helped a great deal.

Also, in the early 70's - she was still new to driving in america, and by the 80's she was use to it....so...that no doubt had an effect.

Glamorous! Thanks.

Did Dusty start that whole fashion look of flowers in the back of the hair?
I think she did with the ribbon style, right?
I think I remember her saying she would look out into a RSG crowd and see these mirrors of herself looking back at her.

Does any-one have the three pictures of Dust, Norma and VW? I think it's from about 1967 taken in one of them little photo booths. Dust is wearing sunglasses.

My guess is that many or most of these were prescription (sun)glasses, however.
