Just curious about the exact date of Dustys last concert.The Complete DS gives the date as early 1988, a charity concert in the Biltmore Hotel ,Los Angeles. Has anyone seen any footage, photos,newspaper mentions etc. of the concert.

As far as I know, Roll Away was Dusty's Last Video.

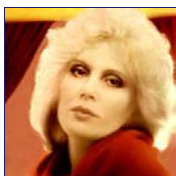

I've not seen any details of the 88 Biltmore concert, but perhaps others have.

I've wondered about it before. It seems to have been a very low profile appearance so unlikely any footage shot sadly.

There is actually some footage. It was shot on a hand held camera from the audience. I was shown it, or at least some of it, a while back and I think she was in turquoise sequins, but can't swear to that. It possibly came from Fred Perry. I haven't seen the exact date given anywhere, just 1988.

I didn't realise her last concert was that early! I thought there would have been a couple around the time of Reputation, but then I guess they were 'appearances' as opposed to concerts.

Wow, haven't seen that one before Mads. Our Dust looks very casual, but it's a great action shot!

It was from a German TV show called Fernsehgarten Mads, and it was filmed outdoors in June 1990. Dusty does Reputation with a trio of camp backing singers! In fact the whole thing is very camp and Dusty is jumping around like an over excited puppy! She's in trainers and the first time I saw it and Dusty bounded on, I actually thought it was someone pretending to be her. I can't help it, I just don't like all the clenched fist stuff. It was a phase though and like all phases, she seemed to pass through it 😊

I understood this shot to be from a rehearsal not from the official performance.

It's rather odd to see Dusty looking so powerful and it's good. She looks like a rocker. I heard Freddie Mercury took some his moves from Dusty - looks like he took this one too!

Carole can you remember if it did look like 1988 and not a few years earlier?
It's just that the tracklisting looks like something Dusty would have performed earlier (eg. At Midnight- I'm surprised she still would have had this in her setlist)
Maybe she had to put the show together at short notice and just was comfortable with a set she had used before.

I wonder was Only For One Night the Luther Vandross song, I know Dusty was a fan, pity they never worked together I would have loved for him to produce her.

Hi there, this truly is from the German TV Show "ZDF Fernsehgarten" of 1990.

As I am from Germany I saw it back then. I had fun watching the performance. This foto may be taken from the rehearsals but she looked the same or at least similar in the show.

She was full of power and obviously had a lot of fun performing "Reputation", although it wasn't the "lots of fun"-mix of the song (haha).

By the way, authors often write about the poor chart performance of the single in the UK. Maybe it didn't do well in the UK, but I consider Top 30 in Germany and 17 weeks in the German charts a good result for the single.

I taped the performance back then on VHS but I just can't find it anymore 🙄

Regards, Jan

Hi Clive,

no, "Reputation" was not her last hit in the German charts.

In 1995 she reached the charts again, this time with "Wherever Would I Be", spending 10 weeks in the charts, reaching no. 73 if I remember that correctly.

The album "A Very Fine Love" didn't chart here, but the album "Reputation" reached no. 21, spending 12 weeks in the charts.

Her biggest solo hit of "recent time" (of course she charted with the PSB and "WHIDTDT", reaching no. 4) definitely was "In Private" (no.4, 30 weeks in charts), followed by "Reputation" (no.29, 17 weeks in charts).

"Nothing Has Been Proved" charted as well, peaking at no.52. But as we have the "Top 100" that is not so bad.

You see, I always wonder why only the UK charts are listed in booklets or books, as the German market is (besides UK and US of course) the biggest music market, so a song can also be considered a hit when reaching a good position over here, even if it did not do too well on the UK charts.

Best regards,
Jan

As I understand it, her 1988 concert at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles was to benefit Van Ness House, which is a rehab/halfway house for male alcoholics. It was also the second (and last) time she performed 'Soft Core' in public. The first time was in 1986 at a farewell concert for Rough Trade in Montreal. Incidentally, 'Soft Core' is the only song from 'White Heat' she ever performed in public.

Clive, just as a trivia tidbit for you, Miss Dusty's last solo chart entry in the US was with 'Silly Silly Fool' in 1970 at #76. She next charted in the Billboard Hot 100 nearly twenty years later with Pet Shop Boys and 'What Have I Done To Deserve This?' in 1987 at #2; that was her highest chart placing ever in the US, and to my knowledge, the last time she charted here. WHY 'In Private' and the 'Reputation' album were never released here, I'll never know.
