I would point out that the art is Wendy's alone - the only thing I am trying to do is minimise the effects of scanning and posting at a reduced resolution. Wendy's portraits of Dusty are, without exception, quite stunning and totally fantastic and - along with everyone here (and a certain Miss Setterfield) - I love them. Such a talent! I am just grateful that Wendy doesn't mind my trying to bring out the best in the art - I neither add nor take away, just adjust a little to enhance, and nothing more.

And Tim - where have you been!? :)

Thanks Will but you've worked miracles with the picture. I've actually run off a print and put it on my wall, I am just mesmerised by what you've done.

Thats lovely Wendy, it really is. You have captured Dusty well, the eyes have it, and the hair is just wonderful. 😊

OMG Wendeh, another masterpiece. You are spoiling us.

I agree with Cas, you really have the eyes and I think that's one of the tuffest aspects of Dusty to capture, But then you've got the mouth and nose too!

Well done, oh great one!

Oh wow Wendy!!!

I don't know what to say except that this instantly became my absolute favourite of all the wonderful portraits you have created - it's just beautiful, really really lovely. Very nicely captured indeed.

I love it.

Will feel free to work your magic on it like you did the other one if you want and have the time.

Wendy it deserves to have nothing done to it, really, other than a wee boost to the contrast. And then to sit and gaze at it and ponder on how lovely it really is. It's a an exquisite image and I am utterly charmed by it.

Wendy, you now have a fantastic collection of these astonishing portraits of our Dusty... me hopes you are planning something wonderful - they deserve to be seen and admired.
