Goin' Back (1990 Dutch remix) (#p145119)

by countrycake » Wed Feb 05, 2014 2:27 pm

In 1990 Phonogram in the Netherlands issued a compilation album under the title The DS Collection. As a taster for the album, they also put out a CD single with Goin' Back as the lead track and SOAPM as the other track.

Neither the CD nor the printed material in the CD case gave any indication that Goin' Back had been remixed, but it had. The Dutch had added bell chimes to the original track.

As 1990 is 24 years ago, I thought that many of LTD's younger members might not have heard this remix. Despite the fact that I do not like the remix, I thought that those who hadn't heard it might like to.

However, I have not been able to attach the mp3 file to this posting as the limit for sound file attachments is 2MB and Goin' Back is 3MB. I have tried to attach using a compressed file but that still failed because of the 2MB limit.

Does anyone know how to get round the limit?

If you're with Google, Jim, you could upload it to your "my drive", and give us the link..

Another alternative would be that I do that for you.....

This track appeared on You Tube two days ago, having been posted by DustyRarities. However, at some point between this afternoon and this evening it disappeared from the chronological list of DS videos. It , however be called up by typing in dusty springfield goin' back:

Problem with last posting. It should read:
