Steve Wright played YDHTSYLM on his Sunday Love Songs prog, today.

..and just hearing that song, brought thoughts of all the people, past and present I've got to know and met, plus places that I've been, just because of Dusty..

So, although I've heard that song a million times, it still reaches my heart..

What a great big Softie, I am. :D :D

However, I doubt that I'm alone. :D

no you are not alone, Carole. I don't have as many Dusty memories as some but the effect is just the same. :D

I love to hear Dusty on the radio because I know so many other people are hearing her too. In the 'olden' days, when Dusty had a new record out, I would slavishly listen (where possible) to a radio show and as soon as she was played, switch to another station and start all over again. :D Radio 2 have given quite a bit of air time to Dusty this past weekend, as well as one's mentioned elsewhere, I also heard SOAPM on Jonathan Ross.

Wonderful!... 🎧
That song was being played by Michael Ball as I got out of the car on Dusty Day.
It was the Cadburys Choc ad for a time as well, wasn't it?

I was in a restaurant recently and Dusty came on the speakers. Interestingly, people just slowed down and listened, probably did not know why, room was much quieter. Great music can do that - rarely. KVC, Houston

So good to be back 🎧 Earlier today on Radio 2, Lisa Tarbuck and Huey Morgan were doing the Jonathan Ross show. They played YDHTSYLM and then talked about how they'd "arm wrestled" to get to choose the song and

Lisa won. She said "sometimes you just can't not have Dusty" and Huey told of how he was at a party once where Elton John was too. SOAPM was playing in the background and when Elton realised, he stood up "and at the top of his lungs" sang along with Dusty. Apparently everyone was speechless and Lisa said she would have paid big money to have been there. Me too 😊

Yes, Carole - I still listen to that song on my ipod practically every workday on the subway train. Pretty cool, Kay - That restaurant is in Houston?

I heard the Lisa Tarbuck show , I am thanking the radio 2 team for putting her on as I didnt have to switch off after S.O.T.S.when the horrendous J.Ross normally comes on. it was a great story re Dusty and then Michael Ball played her on his show today. I see they are also doing a show in the Mermaid theatre in London ,its a tribute to Ella, Aretha and Dusty. isnt that great linking those three singers together. you can win tickets to see the show on the 17th online at BBCRadio2 website. 😊

I thought Huey said that YDHTSYLM was playing at a party..and Elton sang along to that 😊

Anyhow..I hope JR is away for ages and that Lisa fills in ..she is a big improvement.

That Lisa Tarbuck show was really good. Smooth Radio play SOAPM all the time and I have also heard them play ITMON and YDHTSYLM quite a lot too. Incidentally, Smooth also do a great show of Dusty's favourite music - The Motown show every Saturday night from 6.00 -8.00. The presenter is a guy called Dave Brown (I think) who plays a lot of not very well known, but really great tracks, as well as the big hits,
