Henley - today

I've spent a lovely day in Henley, along with 2 'Dusty' friends from Australia Jeff Lawrie and Brian Miller. Jeff is Lulu's cousin (but prefers Dusty! 🤔). This was part of their 'world tour holiday 2011'. Only arriving on Friday, their top priority was a visit to St Mary's and to visit Dusty.

The grave looked nice with a selection of flowers/plants, and the re-furbished stone is wonderful.

We did the usual 'tourist' things and had a lovely meal in what was The Catherine Wheel (changed it's name, but I can't remember!). We also visited the nearby village of Wargrave which boasts some of the most fantastic and lavish houses - they all must be millionaires! We spent a good hour in Wargrave Antiques talking to the owner who was a lovely old gentleman of at least 80 - so VERY interesting..and they bought some nice things to take back. All in all - a wonderful Saturday..and the sun shone all the time too! They now sail to New York on the Queen Mary leaving Monday, flying back in a week 'to do the Cotswolds' then on to the south of France to attend a wedding, before returning back to London again..before travelling to Brussels on Eurostar, then Amsterdam..and not back to Adelaide until October 5th!

To say I'm a slightly bit jealous is an understatement! 😏

🤔 Yeh, that sounds like one hell of a tour schedule. Who wouldn't be jealous? 🤔
