Very nice tribute to Dusty by "POST APOCALYPTIC BOHEMIAN", aka Stephen from Portland, Oregon.

🤔 Stephen's animated globe showing the location of Dusty fans world-wide is the coolest thing I've seen in a long time, and a testament in it's self. Seems like more should be visible. Norwalk is on there. Where's the rest of us Stephen ? 🤔

No doubt he's a fan, and I know it's only a blog, but in some ways it reads like a mini Dancing with Demons! Dusty did have "joy" in her life and she did have an amazing sense of humour. Once again, there is little or no mention. I do feel that since that book, the emphasis is almost always put on her troubled side. Having said that, DWD did have some positives, unfortunately they were just overshadowed by the negatives.

Agree with you Carole about this yes it does read like a watered down version of DWD. and as we all know you can do thousands of good things in your life , but the one bad time seems to have more resonance unfortunately ... 😞

I agree with Carole completely. Always nice to see Dusty sparking interest and discussion (he's obviously a fan) and the music is discussed here, but like DWD much of it dwells on the negative aspects of her life.

PS- based on some of the info cited and factual errors repeated, i'd venture to say his main source for most of this WAS DWD. 🤪
