Irish Television Documentary

by IrishTV » Fri Oct 14, 2011 3:07 pm

Hello there everyone,

My name is Aoife Scott and I'm working for a television company in the West of Ireland called Abú Media. We are currently making a six part series for Irish television which looks at famous musicians of Irish descent – one of which features Dusty Springfield. As well as telling her life story we'll also be exploring what it was like for the Irish living abroad and how it affected the local culture and music.

I was wondering could the Lets Talk Dusty fans help me out?! I'm looking for archive that we can use in the show. We have a incredibly small budget and are looking for fans own images or videos for it to feature in the documentary. Would anyone have anything like this? Images of Dusty that is specifically owned or taken by a fan?

We are in a position where, we can purchase lots of images from sites selling them, but we were hoping that Dustys fans might have something more special that they wouldn't mind being used in a documentary on her! Also, we are so low on funds that we were hoping for people to donate images, with a credit at the end of the documentary to the person who kindly gave us permission to use it!

The documentary is for Irish language channel TG4, and will be broadcast next Spring sometime.

I look forward to hearing what the Dusty fans think, 😊

Kindest Regards

Aoife

Welcome Aoife.

Here you may be interested in an 8mm film short (70's) by fan Mary Owens of California.

Other fans here have many stills. As Nancy says this is "the right place".

Start searching our archives, and contacting members.

I have a few photo's that I took myself which you are welcome to use. They have already been used in different places but as long as that doesn't matter, I'm happy for you to use them. You might also try to get hold of a copy of the video of "Roll Away" which was filmed with Dusty around Cregg Castle in Galway in the mid 90's. You can email me on carole.daydreaming@ntlworld.com if the photo's are of interest.

Carole mailed me re use of some of my Dusty photos from the 60's. I am quite happy for her to do that. I hope they get lots of responses then maybe there will be something we haven't seen.

If you can find the clip of Dusty singing Son of a Preacherman on the Ed Sullivan Show, there's a cute bit afterward where he asks her her real name, and there's a bit of banter about her Irish name, and then Ed says something about the Hibernian Day parade to which she responds with puzzlement.

hi Everybody!

It's me again - I am back working on the Dusty Documentary trying to find out who owns what archive they have used in the first edit of the show!

It's coming along lovely now - I hope you guys will like it!

Can anyone help me with this clip...

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RInuFNw1Lk0>

I am trying to find out what station this is - and what programme so I chase the owners for permission to use it?

Thanks in advance for your help!

Aoife

Hi Aoife,

It's from This Is Tom Jones (ATV), March 1969. Looking forward to seeing the documentary when it's finally released 😊

Dear Irish TV

I was hoping that as a member of a media company you would be aware that the majority of all of Dusty's performances are under various governmental copyright regulations and must be licensed to be included in your documentary.

Even certain internet images are protected by copyright, and if you are in violation, you and your company can be sued for license infringement.

To avoid forthcoming issues from media and entertainment companies, I'd suggest you contact the resident guru on these things, ie, Paul Howes, author of the Complete Dusty Springfield and producer of several CDs or Dusty performances. I am sure he will direct you to the appropriate contacts at The BBC and Universal Music.

Paul can be contacted at dustybulletin@aol.com

Alas, licensing fees are expensive may not be suitable for your documentary budget.

Also, most YouTube videos are in violation of various copyright laws.

Good luck with your project. Keep the forum updated on your progress.
