The video is good, but I've already posted it in the topic Look what I just found on Youtube, page 3.

this could be my favorite of all those late 60's-early 70's videos Dusty did. Trippy fun! 😄

Sidenote- I was listening to Boston's Easy 99.1 a few weeks back, and in the evening they played..."Just a Little Lovin'". That made my night. It's one of the songs that made me fall for Dusty's voice... 🥰

Well Samuel, perhaps we can turn this into a topic about the song itself? 😊

I love the mix of sultriness, sweetness, happiness and contentment Miss Dusty so ably brings to life. A perfect starter to the 'Memphis' album.

Why not after all? It's true that Dusty is beautiful in this outfit and that the song is perfect. 🍷

I'm glad that it has withstood multiple covers (including the Mighty Streisand), and remains the definitive version. 🗨️ listening again, it's kind of a sexier "What the World Needs Now", isn't it? 😊 it never gets old...and I do have to give credit to Wexler/Mardin/Dowd, the Memphis Cats, the Sweet Inspirations. It's an all-around beautiful song. And Dusty's just pure heaven on it... 🍷

All radio and TV stations should be required to play this song daily, at exactly 7am, in ALL time zones.

I guarantee world peace would be declared within a month. 🍷

Some credits to the composers of the song too.. 😊 Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil! 🍷 Maybe they can share the Nobel Peace Prize with you Marcus ? 🍷

I don't have enough English words to describe how much I love Dusty's voice in this song.. 🍷

I think I've read somewhere these words from Dusty herself about the song: "This is just the way my voice sound at 9.30 in the morning.."

🤔 Funny,.. Dusty being a night-owl I never imagined her being awake at 9:30 in the morning. 😄 😊

I saw a TV docu recently where a photographer (whose name escapes me right now) had set up a photo shoot with a Motown band (not sure about that detail either 😞 ) at 10 a.m. which they thought was awfully early. One of the band members said: "I didn't know it was 10 o'clock twice a day!" 😄
