

Let's Talk Dusty!

The Ultimate Forum for Dusty Springfield Fans
<http://www.dustyspringfield.org.uk/forum/>

BBC Sessions

<http://www.dustyspringfield.org.uk/forum/viewtopic.php?f=8&t=5517>

Page 1 of 1

BBC Sessions

by jeffery

Posted: Mon Sep 30, 2013 4:52 am

😄 At the seasons first record convention I bought a copy of "DS Complete BBC Sessions".

I've Got A Good Thing !, but I don't quite know what I have.

😏 I mean I don't know anything about "BBC Sessions". 😏

In the tracks I hear subtle differences, little nuances. Different than other releases. I have other artist's "Complete BBC Sessions", So can anyone tell me what that was like ? Was this a full studio orchestra available to the guest artist ? Was it a weekly show ? Is it still broadcasting ?

I heard Dusty introduced with the Echoes, and loved hearing one announcer introduce her as

"that magnificent songstress - Dusty Springfield". 🎤

Where can I learn more about these session operations ?

Re: BBC Sessions

by trek007

Posted: Mon Sep 30, 2013 10:02 am

These were radio programmes in the 60's and the artists usually sang live .

Top Gear was fairly short lived but Saturday Club was broadcast for many years.

Both were introduced by Brian Matthews who now of course introduces Sounds Of The Sixties.

Dusty would be on these shows fairly regularly .

Re: BBC Sessions

by pat.dunham

Posted: Mon Sep 30, 2013 11:43 am

Trek beat me to it. I was going to suggest these two programmes. I tried some research on BBC archives but found nothing. There would have been a band/orchestra playing live with the artistes. There is one example on YT of Brian Matthews introducing Dusty with her version of "The house of the rising sun" (1964). There are possibly more but without a song title/singer it's difficult to trace. I do wonder if there are more unrecorded songs that Dusty sang on these programs which are hidden on the web somewhere.

Re: BBC Sessions

by jeffery

Posted: Mon Sep 30, 2013 9:57 pm

pat.dunham wrote:

Trek beat me to it. I was going to suggest these two programmes. I tried some research on BBC archives but found nothing. There would have been a band/orchestra playing live with the artistes. There is one example on YT of Brian Matthews introducing Dusty with her version of "The house of the rising sun" (1964). There are possibly more but without a song title/singer it's difficult to trace. I do wonder if there are more unrecorded songs that Dusty sang on these programs which are hidden on the web somewhere.

😊 Thanks Pat (and Trek)

Yes, Brian Matthews even announces that Dusty made regular appearances on the show, and for one song he introduces the show as Top Of The Pops. I thought some of the songs sounded better. Like IDKJWTDWM - It's well balanced, the guitar is more clear, other instruments sound more clear. and Dusty sounds like she's really into it.

I wonder if some of the pics we see here (on LTD) in studio are actually at the BBC studios.

Now I have a few more songs I didn't have before.

Good info for my imagination. 🎧

Re: BBC Sessions

by pat.dunham

Posted: Mon Sep 30, 2013 10:38 pm

Well look what I've found on YT posted by our Markus!!

Dusty Springfield - I've Got a Good Thing

Re: BBC Sessions

by jeffery

Posted: Mon Oct 07, 2013 4:48 am

😊 I discovered there's a little more to be said about the BBC Sessions in the booklet included with my CD. 🎧