Hi, Terri

here's a list of songs:

1. Introduction
2. You don't have to say you love me
3. I only want to be with you
4. All I see is you
5. Little by little
6. Take me as I am (Freddie Paris)
7. Smack dab in the middle (Freddie Paris)
8. Anything you can do (with Freddie Paris)
9. My colouring book
10. Twenty-four hours from Tulsa
11. Interview
12. Stay awhile
13. What's new pussycat (John Sangster)
14. Michelle (John Sangster)
15. Manha de Carnaval (with John Sangster)
16. Wishing and hoping
17. In the middle of nowhere
18. I just don't know what to do with myself
19. What's it gonna be
20. End credits

For fourteen years the prime pop TV show in Australia was Bandstand, hosted by Brian Henderson. A special edition of the show was produced in 1967 and Henderson had this to say about it: "In my opinion...the Bandstand you're about to see is probably the best thing we've done in the last few years and perhaps the most polished and professional Bandstand we've ever made." The star of that Bandstand? None other than ....Dusty Springfield.

Dusty recorded the special edition of the show during a working trip to Australia. She sang most of her hits including You Don't Have To Say You Love Me, I Only Want To Be With You, All I See Is You and I Just Don't Know What To Do With Myself. Also on the special were American singer Freddie Paris and Australian percussionist John Sangster, with whom she duetted.

Now, for the very first time, this show can be seen by Dusty's fans around the world in this special Bulletin release.

I was at a record show a few weeks ago and picked up a few Dusty related items. One was a dvd of Brian Henderson's Bandstand 1965. From what I've read on this forum Paul Howes sold a dvd of this through the DSB, correct? The dvd I bought had ten tracks on it starting with the duet with Freddie Paris. I don't think it's the same dvd that I saw on another post here because that one had I believe 20 tracks. The reason I mention my dvd is because for the first time I was able to view her performance of Manha de Carnaval. Now I no next to nothing about Latin music, but she seemed to really be enjoying singing it. The first thing that came to mind was how seductive and soothing this performance was. It really is amazing to hear her sing so many styles of music. The more I explore her catalog the more in awe I am. I just can't think of another singer who could pull off so many styles so well. I have seen some of the bandstand clips from the Reeling in the Years dvd, but it was cool to see these other clips as well.

I also noticed something with the Freddie Paris duet. I've heard Petula Clark got into some trouble with her interaction with Harry Belafonte during a U.S tv show. Didn't she hold his hand or give him a peck on the cheek or something like that? I was just wondering if you think Dusty would have come under fire for her performance with Freddie if it had been shown here in the states. I just thought I'd throw that out there and see what you guys think.

Dusty was the greatest interpreter and performer of popular music, popular meaning anything but opera, who ever lived. No one before or since has mastered as many genres, at least ten, and could sing them all so perfectly. I don't mean she was the definitive singer in all those genres, but she mastered them when most singers are able to do, at most, two or three.

As for the interracial issue, Petula got in trouble for TOUCHING Harry Belafonte's arm during a ballad they were singing on her musical special. When it aired it was immediately twisted around during public debates that HE touched her (the lynch-mob mentality at work). Petula, and her French husband who produced the show, were incredulous at the controversy.

That said, the Freddie Paris duet would never have been shown on American TV in the sixties. Period.

Dustybulletin@aol.com to reach Paul Howes. I ordered mine from him a year or so ago. He also has a website called Zone records.

Dusty's performance of "carnival" was so beautiful, it's why I wished she had done a Latin influenced album. Many artists, including Peggy Lee and Sarah Vaughan, did them at that time. If only she had recorded "meditation" ,that way! I would have died of pleasure.

I agree with Maggie, she was a master of many genres, and no, I don't think they would have shown that here at that time.

Our loss.

I could not agree more with your take on Dusty'S many styles....'IwannabeaBluesSinger'. She was the complete package. I don't like making comparisons with other female singers ie Streisand (I have a friend who just adores her) and we get into arguments sometimes about who is the better singer. While not disputing the fact that Streisand is a legend, for me Dusty is quite simply the best ever. When I listen to her recordings from the 60,s it is unfathomable to me why, she is not given the credit she deserves for all the many styles of music she was capable of singing. I am so grateful to be able to appreciate this beautiful gift. Thanks Dusty.
