i went to Brighton yesterday-to solve the mystery- i think i have found the spot where Dusty was pictured on the beach

 Image

the beach is at Ovingdean-just opposite St Dunstans college very close to Brighton - the sea defences have changed but im positive the cliffs havent-changed that much in 40? years--to get to the beach you have to park above the cliffs ,just off the main road and walk down a series of steps- Dusty would have walked about 200 yards !-

Thanks for finding that spot, Dave!

Dusty looks like she's freezing and it seems to be half a storm! Your clothing looks more sensible.

Well done, Dave! Was there a special aura around that rock you were leaning against?  Seriously, nice to see you in the photo.

hi - the area or cliffs in the background is locally known as blackrock (reminded me of springfields black hills song)- and way back in the sixties there was a carpark just off the main road directly above where Dusty is sat- that makes Dustys walk about a hundred yards!-- this is great fun finding where Dusty once was pictured- i may try another one involving a london hotel and a tandem!! can anyone ride tandem???? lol oh as for my more adequate clothing, thats what i wear when im riding my motorcycle , its faster and cheaper than a car!
