I haven't seen any comments on Dusty's 1989 Jukebox Jury appearance so perhaps it's flown under the radar. Here's a link to clip 1 of 3:

Thanks so much for finding this showing of JBJ with Dusty. Brings back so many memories.

Of course you can see the complete programme it's just in 3 parts. Thanks again.

The problem I think about the 1989 'special' show, was the records to review left a lot to be desired...not the greatest year for good music.

Dusty appeared as a panelist at least twice in addition to the 1967 and 1989 shows -

On 19.10.1963 she was a panelist along with Cliff Richard, Susan Hampshire and Terence Edmond (who, I believe was an actor who appeared in 'Z-Cars'?). This shows the problem with the programme - 2 actors who knew little or nothing about music. At times this was acutely embarrassing.

There was an improvement when Dusty appeared alongside Tony Blackburn, Jonathan King and Britt Ekland on July 7th 1979. Britt Ekland knew more about Rod Stewart's willy , than she ever did about music. Again - why have an actress giving her thoughts on whether a record would be a hit or not? I could never understand this

Saying that - I used to watch the show every week!!...one that sticks in my mind was broadcast on 25th January 1964 when no other than PHIL SPECTOR was on the panel - someone who REALLY knew what he was talking about $^{\odot}$

The songs from the 1989 appearance are pretty cheesy...but i gotta say Dusty looks marvelous!

Dusty looks great. The music was awful apart from Fine Young Cannibals. Very much of its time though I suppose. I wonder who would be on the panel today?
