I thought I'd post this here rather than on the Abba thread because the theme of the "play" is actually about loving someone you have never met...in a fan relationship. It could apply to a lot of us in regard to Dusty too and I thought it just might be interesting. It's Anni-Frid and a fan called Christopher and is on this afternoon at 2.15.

Well its got me interested Carole!!! Thats a big huge thing to me, the fact i never met her, and people always ask me why i love her so much if i never saw her or met her, thanks a lot for that i would never have seen it otherwise!

Great subject indeed. And how great that even listeners outside the UK can hear it on iPlayer! 🤔

Great find, Carole. I'll try to give it a listen. 😊

I've just listened and I found most of it really interesting with quite a few things to latch on to. "It started with a voice", "twin souls divided by not having ever met", "a thorough knowledge of her changing hairstyles is all part of the worship" and "I thank her for all the times I've listened to her and thought she was my friend". Ring any bells 🤔 😊 He was lucky enough to get to eventually interview Frida, I expect many of us would have liked the chance to do that, with Dusty, I mean.
