 Released on a compilation album

I was quite shocked when I found out that Dusty recorded versions of songs such as Michael Jackson's 'Ben' and Johnny Nash's 'I can see clearly now'.

Do you reckon that the original tapes of some of the unreleased songs still exist? If they do, then we may have more of Dusty's excellent music to look forward to!

Hi Danny,

Do you realize that there are quite a few songs on that list that were released?...as extras on later editions of 'Dusty In Memphis' and on 'Beautiful Soul' (a compilation of 'Cameo' & 'Longing') and you can still find these...especially DIM, though BS can be a difficult find but still out there.

There's a good album's worth still waiting!

Perhaps in 2011 we will get 'Dusty uncovered' or 'Dusted down' ??? 🤔 ?

Danny, do you have a link to this list that you could post please? I doubt very much that Dusty ever recorded 'All You Need Is Love', especially as late as '89, as she avoided Beatles songs like the plague! As for 'Ben' - yeuch I do hope that she didn't. Rats to that one for sure 🙄 The title 'Can't Give Up The Love I Feel For You' sounds like it's meant to be 'I Can't Give Back The Love I Feel For You' which is of course released. 'My Love Life Is A Disaster' is the same song that Mary Wilson recorded. It's horrible so I hope I never hear Dusty sing it. Experience has made me very wary of such lists.

Oh silly old me, I should have gone straight to 'the bible'. Here's what it had to say about the supposed unreleased tracks.

- 1968-69: Midnight's Sounds - (Norma Tanega, Dan White)* Issued by Dusty Springfield Bulletin in 2002
- 1966: The Morning After The Night Before - (Toni Wine, Carole Bayer Sager)* Tapes missing
- 1969: To Love Somebody (Barry Gibb, Robin Gibb) - (Barry Gibb, Robin Gibb)* Tapes lost or destroyed
- 1970: Sweet Charlie Babe - (Philip L. Hurtt, Walter B. Sigler)* Dusty's version was recorded over by Jackie Moore
- 1970: All That's Left Is To Say Goodbye - (Antonio Carlos Jobim, Vinicius DeMoraes, Ray Gilbert)* Wrong title. It's actually called 'Goodbye' and was written by Spike Milligan!
- 1970: Black Sheep - (unknown)* No full vocal but it does exist
- 1972: It's All Been Said Before - (Dennis Lambert, Brian Potter)* It appears that Dusty did not record any vocals or if she did the tapes were destroyed
- 1972: When The Boys Come Out To Play - (Dennis Lambert, Brian Potter)* It appears that Dusty did not record any vocals or if she did the tapes were destroyed
- 1972: Ben - (Walter Scharf, Don Black)* It appears that Dusty did not record any vocals or if she did the tapes were destroyed

- 1972: I Can See Clearly Now - (Nash)* It appears that Dusty did not record any vocals or if she did the tapes were destroyed
- 1973: Six Million Dollar Man - (Glen Larson)* Great song. Not known how much she recorded of it
- 1980: I Don't Want To Hear It Anymore (Re-recorded) - (Randy Newman) [For the movie, Love and Money]* It's featured twice in the movie complete with various action sound effects
- 1980-81: Will You Love Me Tomorrow? (Re-recorded) - (Carole King, Gerry Goffin)* The recording has been found
- 1981-82: My Loss - (unknown) [Outtake: White Heat]* There are no Dusty vocals, only a man's
- 1981-82: Toughen Up - (Terry Britten, Graham Lyle) [Outtake: White Heat]* Dusty never recorded a vocal. Olivia Newton-John did record this song
- 1981-82: Turn Out The Lights - (David Faragher, Thomas Faragher, Caleb Quaye) [Outtake: White Heat]* No Dusty vocals were ever recorded
- 1981-82: What Is She Hiding? - (unknown) [Outtake: White Heat]* Dusty never recorded a vocal
- 1984: Affection - (unknown)* Does exist because many of us have it
- 1985: My Love Life Is A Disaster - (Biddu, Les Reed) [Outtake: Sometimes Like Butterflies]* Was never completed before Stringfellow pulled the plug Thank god for that
- 1989: All You Need Is Love - (John Lennon, Paul McCartney)* Approx 1min was recorded for use by Panasonic in Japan. Not known if it was actually ever screened.

Thanks to The Complete Dusty Springfield (aka the bible)

My own comments

So, sadly nothing new. Brian, not even enough for an EP 🙄

All That's Left To Say Is Goodby - I wish that someone will find Dusty's version of that song! 🙏

Here is another beautiful version of the song in Portuguese by the brazilian singer Claudete Soares

Another nice version indeed. I always liked Dusty doing South American / Brazilian stuff like Morning or Meditation - this song would have fit very well on the Dusty ... Definitely album. 🎵 🙏

As far as All That's Left Is To Say Goodbye, I think when Goodbye (Go My Love) was found and/or released, it was incorrectly labeled as ATLITSG. I could be wrong...I'll have to check the 'bible' when I'm done with work. I also do have Six Million Dollar man on my computer...but only the credits version, not a whole song. And as for My Love Life Is a Disaster...I don't think Mary Wilson's version is bad at all, but I don't know that it would have been a good song for Miss Dusty.

And to add to the confusion, during the same period in the early 70s when she was recording tracks that ended up on See All Her Faces, she also recorded a song called "Goodbye" (not the Gamble and Huff produced track) that she sang live on a TV show, and it was intended for SAHF but never made it in.

Gosh, what a great memory. You are correct. The actual song is called 'Goodbye' and was written by Spike Milligan. So there is no longer a mystery. All songs on the list have been accounted for. Breakdown of the 8 songs 'found':

- 3 - parts only recorded/exist
- 1- issued
- 2 - found (one of which has been leaked)
- 2 - fate unknown

Excellent! I do have your friend's fantastic remix of the song as well as the credits version. I think I may have gotten it from you! 🙏 It's a shame there isn't a complete song, though. I also wish we could hear the 1980 version of I Don't Want to Hear it Anymore sound-effect free. 😞

Hi, this is my first post. Been a huge Dusty fan for over 25 years. There's only a handful of her recordings I don't have. Most of them are on your list. I'd love to hear Midnight Sounds. I've searched the internet without success. If anyone has this, PLEASE upload it onto youtube. I did discover a couple of rare live recordings on youtube though, Deep Purple being one of them. 😊 Re Sweet Charlie Babe: although it's generally reported that Jackie Moore cut her vocal over Dusty's track with the vocal erased I have read an online posting from someone claiming to have been a Sigma Sound associate who was in at both ladies' sessions & he says that a new track was cut for Jackie to sing to. Obviously that's not substantive enough to trump the version of events reported by Paul Howes but I think there's at least a possibility that Dusty's vocal survived - although even if that's the case it's likely been lost if it hasn't surfaced by now.

While I cannot verify that some of the previously unreleased tracks will appear on the forthcoming Universal CD/DVD box set, we may get one or two tracks.

As usual, my sources tell me Universal has been less than cooperative about what it thinks it has the rights too and despite proof of ownership, it is extremely reluctant to even approach the subject of Dusty's recordings on other labels (eg,,ABC.Dunhill). This includes video tracks, too! Jeez! What a company!

That said, I am told work on the new box set is progressing and some of the tracks will be "spectacular."

@Joe- with the exception of the Spike Milligan song, the list is pretty much unchanged.

i was hoping that "Will You Love Me Tomorrow" or a proper mix of "Affection" would've seen the light of the day, but since they avoided 14 entire years of Dusty's career like the plague (1973-1986) that didnt happen.

the two tracks from that period that did make it on the compilation (sneaking in the movie theme section) are "Give Me the Night" (1978) and "It Goes Like it Goes" (1980). Not the worst songs Dusty ever recorded but unlikely to be on anyone's 'absolute favorites' list, and neither are exactly representative of her best work during this period. 🙄 don't get me wrong Taylor...i actually love the song! Guess I was a bit rough on it, but look at it this way. Those are the ONLY two songs that represent that 13 year stretch. Not one song from Cameo, It Begins Again, Living Without Your Love or White Heat is included. That's really the point intended.

Sadly not Joe.

My guess though is that the White Heat outtake I've Loved You Somewhere Before will eventually get a release. If it was shortlisted for the Goin' Back boxed set there must be enough of a Dusty vocal to make it releasable, perhaps it just needs a bit of sympathetic mixing.

I think recordings like Ooh Child and Angels were originally considered too unfinished to salvage but with some effort good mixes were done.

Just had an idea for the unreleased 1970 track Black Sheep. From Complete DS we know that Dusty only recorded a couple of lines of the lyrics but that it was a catchy song.

If the tapes were given to a producer with the right sensibility (I have in mind Mark Ronson) to let him build a contemporary hit around it , could see Dusty high in the charts again with a new song.

Clive, that is a brilliant idea. Look what Petula Clark did with Dusty's unfinished take on "Corner of the Sky". Perhaps the idea needs to be planted into the ear of Mark Ronson or the like. He in particular would capture a great throw-back type of production. He transformed the Zutons' "Valerie" (though significant credit must be shared with Amy Winehouse for delivering the wonderful vocal).

Never say never...

After "Corner of the Sky" was left off the Beautiful Soul compilation due to incomplete vocals, not even its original producer Brooks Arthur imagined a singer would unearth it, fill-in the missing vocals duet style, and make it releasable.

Granted that track probably had more vocals completed than "Black Sheep", but we must not underestimate the powers of creativity and music.
