Annie Randall mentions this lady on the 'Bit About Us All' thread.

Thought you may like to hear her 'take' on Doodlin'..😄😄

Just checked more videos and she's really good and cool too. Her look is similar to Dusty's in some of the videos. Just when I thought I'd got out of the CD store, I get sucked right back in again...!

I've been raised with Italian songs... 😊 Parole Parole is one of Mina's hits:

I was introduced to Mina and her music a few years back. This is a medley from San Remo 65 and at 5.40 in, she sings Io Che Non Vivo and wanders to the audience where Pino Dinaggio is sitting in the front row.

Carole R, I'd never heard Mina's Doodlin'. Thanks! Given how tricky the words are, she deserves credit!

Cor, the ending with Mina repeating "Parole parole parole" and Celentano persisting with "Che cosa sei, che cosa sei?" So over the top!

Carole G, what's the link you're referring to?

Mina even has an advice column ("agony aunt") in an Italian magazine, or at least she did a coupe of years ago. Quite the icon in Italy and very mysterious too, I'm told. Apparently she's very reclusive and lives in Switzerland...only surfaces every few years to release an album and then she goes back into hiding.

Have any of you italianos heard of Bobby Solo? I bought a compilation of his tracks back from Florence in the 80s. I admit it was because he sounded like Elvis on this song.

Yes, Memphis, Bobby Solo does sound like Elvis. Wasn't there some scandal around Solo at one of the mid-60s San Remo competitions? I think he was disqualified for some reason--causing all sorts of drama that year. Thanks for re-posting Pino.

Carole G, love the Mina medley and the hand-holding with Pino D. The San Remo clips are addicting, aren't they? I'd like to attend the San Remo festival one year. I'm told that Italy grinds to a halt and everyone follows the competition.

I wonder if anyone among the LTD crowd has ever attended? I guess you have to book way in advance. I can't imagine that the current San Remo matches the quality of the 60s songs. That seems to have been a golden era in terms of songwriting and singing in Italy.

Hello Carole - have just watched the Mina medley and thank you so much for it - two points on this!! What a pity we don't have video footage of Dusty performing at the San Remo Festival and what a great pity she didn't record the song in Italian like the other two original tracks she actually recorded for the Italian market. My wife and I stayed in the Royal Hotel in San Remo this summer - I had always wanted to visit the town and try to surmise where Dusty might have wandered! A lovely hotel and a lovely part of Italy. I would recommend it but take plenty of cash!!

PS - yes I'd love to go to the Song Festival some year - and the car rally in September too!! Does anyone know where the photographs of Dusty were taken around the time of her visit to San Remo (those from the Complete A 7 B Sides CD - am I right?)- while we were there in August I searched for possible venues but couldn't find any! Someone help?

I believe they were in the grounds of San Remo's Casino. You can just see one of the lamps that feature in some pics, in the bottom right corner.

Thanks Carole - I have video footage of the Casino and photographs as well - I reckoned that to be a possible venue but there were so many pillars and ballustrades around that part of the town I couldn't figure out where exactly the photographs were taken or from what angle. We wandered into the Casino but didn't stay as we didn't want to take any more chances with our one remaining credit card as our main one had already been illegally used whilst we were on holiday!
