Thanks to Cas for alerting me to this, she'd just heard talk on the radio about it. I'd be happy with the number plate!

Yes, I think I'll just have the number plate too!....Dusty obviously passed her test again on her return to Britain, I'm sure Dusty loved the hydrolasic suspension which gives a 'magic carpet' ride on the large Citroens.....but £40,000 for an 17 year old car?!!

I have to agree with Mark, that's a heck of a lot for a car of that age no matter who owned it... I notice it didn't meet the reserve though!

Hmmm.. Hastings is not that far from me, maybe I should take a leisurely drive down (with camera in tow of course 📷) and see if I can find it lurking anywhere within that postcode!!

Thanks for the 'close-up' pic Cas!.....St. Andrews (Square) maybe, in Hastings.....well, it's St. Andrews something, perhaps you could let us know Bev!

As I've mentioned above, love the plate, but I'm thinkin' there's a whole heap of mechanical trouble ahead for any future owner, looks like there's been some water seepage into the offside headlight for starters, Citroens never did have a very good record for long-term reliability, and how many XM's are still on the road today?.....apart from this special one of course! 📷

It's around St Andrews summat and South Terrace; I know where that is so I think a wee day out may be called for!! 📷

I've seen a few XM's around and about but I think if I bought it I'd be too scared to drive it in case someone ploughed into it and it ended up being written off... could you imagine how utterly devastating it would be spending all that money to have some muppet wreck it?!? Or having it nicked! 😱😡

Bearing in mind Dusty's previous cars ie. Jensen etc. I am suprised she drove something like this!

Did she own it until 1999 or replace with something a bit trendier?

Hey, Kathy & Graham

You can both take it for a spin - just remember, we drive of the right(as in PROPER) side of the road here.

Well I potted off to Hastings today and found this old thing just hanging around on the street 🗑️ It's not in the best of shape... I felt quite sorry for it even though it's only a car!! It's sat in a little side road not far from the seafront with a lot of seagull s on it (not that it shows in the piccies cos it kinda blends in with the car colour 🤢) and it's in need of a good clean inside and out. It looks OK from a distance but when you get up close... 🤢

The trim is going a bit iffy in many places :

The bumpers are scuffed :

How very tempting it was though to pilfer the number plates!!!! 🙈🙊

I used to date a girl with a Kharman Ghia. Nuf said.

Bev, good on you. Cool pics. I think you should begin a new career as a detective. I wonder if he will sell the car at the outrageous price he has it listed for?

Well spotted Bev 😊 He'll never get what he's asking for the car surely, can't believe anyone other than a Dusty fan would be even interested, and how many of us have that sort of dosh. Somebody drop Elton a line 😊

Thanks for these extra pictures Bev. How great you found it. I bet you had trouble not removing the licence plates! 😊 Yes it is sad to see it in this state. Wonder how much the owner paid for it? He'll never get the price, even from the most devoted Dusty fan!

Just been looking through a number plate website called www.myownplate.co.uk

The number plates D19 UST and D18 UST are both for sale at £434 each!.....Fair enough, they weren't Dusty's actual plates such as this one, but the Guy who's trying to sell this Car is definitely havin' a laugh....

£40,000 😊!!.....In your dreams, Mister!! 😊

Yes, somebody did put them on afterwards Mads. Dusty didn't have personalised number plates, guess the owner just thought they would add something to the car.

Don't look like it! I was in Hastings again today and whilst there had a quick nosey in the street it was in last time and it's still there, looking a bit more bedraggled!! 😞

Thanks for the info Bev!.....strangly enough I was only thinking a couple of days ago about that Car, the fact that the current owner bought a 'Dusty' plate after Dusty's ownership makes him a fake and a fraud.....I just hope it goes to a genuine fan at a more realistic price.
