Hi everyone!.....with all the recent discussion concerning Dusty's home's has got me to thinking about a newspaper article I read early 90's I think, saying that Dusty was living in a small terraced house in Marlow with a communal garden and that she was required to be a member of the resident's association.

Now, I may be a little confused here but I'm under the impression that on returning to England, it was a Flat (Apartment) in the suburb of Southgate first, then to Frogmill, and finally to Little Hill, the thing is I'd hardly describe the Frogmill home as a 'small terraced house', though I could understand there being a resident's association, plus it's closer to Henley than Marlow, so I'm wondering was there another place after Southgate, and before Frogmill?

Cheers!

Love Mark x

Dusty lived in Taplow Mark and that had a communal garden. Could be that's the one you're thinking of. Bev went there and posted a picture but wasn't sure she'd got the right spot.

Thanks for the reply Carole, yes, that must be it, looking at the atlas Taplow is more Maidenhead than anything!

Any idea of an address or dates of residence anyone?

The address I have is :

(Don't know which number unfortunately) Wellbank, Rectory Road, Taplow, Maidenhead, Berkshire, SL6 OES

You can't miss it as Taplow's not a big place!
