Hi Carole,

It's what I'm looking for too. I think Josh posted the image a while back too. I can't buy this photo anywhere or find it anywhere in the on-line image archives. It may be owned by Dusty's Estate. Previously, it hasn't crossed my mind to have Dusty on my wall and perhaps this image is just too powerful but I reckon a life size blow-up would look great. Alongside the photo from 'A Girl called Dusty'.

Thanks!

Memphis

Hi everyone! 😊

(I sent an email "cheerio" to Nancy in an effort to avoid another "off topic" post!)

So..... back "on topic"....

Lots of people seem to love the photo above (as do I). Is it reasonable to assume that that one, and these two were all taken at the same time? I've always really liked each of them, but have only recently clued in that they may have been taken together!! 😬 I think they appeal to me because the hair and the clothing are somewhat secondary to the total image. I guess, in short, I mean that Dusty doesn't seem to be hiding behind the big (absurd to my eye!) hair and "glitzy" clothes.

The Archives of Let's Talk Dusty! - So...

Apart from the early "denim" photos, and the ones taken late by Gavin Evans (Dusty again in a dark suit with 2 of the 3 I've seen with a black background, so that all one can see is the head and hands), I can't think of too many that are as simple as these.

I've just had another related thought..... could it be a similar reason that so many of us love IDWTGOWY from the 1966 BBC series? The song and the performance are, of course, brilliant. What adds to my enjoyment of it is the opportunity to see Dusty up close without all those distractions. I had the same (very strong) reaction when I saw the video of Something In Your Eyes for the first time. The close-ups were so close that I felt I could almost, nearly, actually see her through all the makeup!!! 🤩

See - I don't usually say much, but when I get going, I can ramble with the best of them!! 😊👍

Jen

Hello Jen,

I think the classic iconic shot we all love could have been taken at around the same time as the shots you've posted but I don't think it was the same session. In the classic shot she's wearing a turtle neck sweater and either the photo has been manipulated or she's wearing very heavy eye make up. Dusty doesn't appear to be wearing a sweater in the your second shot but I can't see properly. In any case she looks great in all the shots. I go for the simplicity too. These shots are also representative of my idea of the earlier '60s; like the cover of 'A Hard Day's Night'.

I'm still not well versed in al the Dusty song short-forms. What is IDWTGOWY?

looks more similar to the cover of A Girl Called Dusty, in fact I've always thought that and wondered if it had been taken at the same shoot. And as a PS....I love them all 😊

I think the picture on the left in the black sweater is SO iconic.

It reminds me of some of the black and white pics of Marilyn Monroe which are not her normal "posey" shots.

I would love a blow up of this.

Even in silhouette, she is INSTANTLY recognisable :)

Also cute!

I can't stop looking at that first photo you posted from that show, Carole. It's unusual to see a full body shot in profile. It really gives a sense of how petite she was, for one thing. The hair is just fantastic in profile, too. But there's something else about the photo I can't put my finger on.

Lovely images. I saw Carole's full shots a couple of days ago and was, again, surprised by how tiny Dusty was. She looks like a doll or Lady Penelope. She looks so cool on The Dating Game. Thanks Carole and Nancy. I didn't get the Marilyn reference (I think its the hair that does it but not much else) but I kind of see what folks mean. I'd never seen the clip with the Mersyeybeats (what a great look they had). Thanks again to Carole. Great stuff.

To all of you who have ever participated in this thread,TAHNK YOU from the depths of my heart! I just spent the entire day today beginning on page 1 and ending here on page 84, devouring your treasured gifts. I have been laughing, crying, lusting and admiring to the point of sheer blissfull overload. To think some of you knew her, saw her, talked with her is so wonderful and my jealousy is indescribable. The only thing that makes it manageable is your generosity in sharing Dusty with those of us not so fortunate. I feel I am truely fianlly home here at LTD surrounded by so many people who love Dusty and Mary as I do. I WILL be at Dusty day and can not wait to meet you all! THANK YOU ALL! In awe, Ro Appreciate all your responses. Seems I am spending a significant portion of my non-work, non-sleeping time either here or reading AGCD by Sharon Davis and I STILL can't get enough!

I would be really pleased if my new friends here at LTD would call me Ro. It is short for my surname (Romine)and what my friends and family call me.

I do have a question: I have seen very few informal pics of Dusty. In fact, only one I have seen is my avatar. That is one of my favorite pics of her - she was even more beautiful 'au natural' to me then made up and dressed up. Did she not wear jeans and t-shirts and shorts and sweats etc? GN, Ro

That photo is otherwise known as the dance of the zombies. It is somewhere else on our site Clive and past discussion included how bland everyone else looked compared to Dusty! How did she keep a straight face?

That's a more fitting name Carole for the dance, but I don't think Dusty is keeping a straight face, she has got a little smirk going on there I think. She's desperately trying to keep a straight face.

Yes, I can see the little smirk Wendy, I'll bet she cracked up good and proper when saw the photo though!

Here's the full version of the 3rd one that Clive posted.

thanks Carole, nice to see the full photo.

nice to see some Dusty photos..I thought we had run dry .
ah yes the Zombie dance...they do all look a little dazed..except the woman to the left of Dusty..she looks as if she might break out into the Hustle.
The first photo (the Day By Day)..it really doesn't seem as if they have a lot to say to each other. (wonder what the bubble over their heads say?)

Cas, where do all the pics come from? Are they from private collections or have they simply not been published before now?

I was having the discussion today about where they have come from and it was suggested that a photo agency has bought them, probably from a photo library that supplied these to magazines and such. They are all rare, some very rare in that they don't seem to have made an appearance anywhere before. They're selling them as one off's on Ebay, obviously to get a good price (and it seems to be working), but I do hate the fact that they may then just disappear again into someones private collection.

The middle one of the last 3 is a puzzle to me. It says 1968 but it looks like 67 and I thought at first the dress was the one she wore for the show with Alf Garnett, but it isn't. The material is the same (as the mini too), but the style is different and I don't think I've ever seen it before. The one with the award was probably for IJDKWTDWM as I have a similar shot from Disc dated 5/9/64 saying the silver award was from Disc for sales of her latest single.
