All her birthday cards and messages, mine would definitely be in there 😊😊 This photo popped up before of this thread last year http://www.dustyspringfield.info/forum/topic.asp?TOPIC_ID=3572&SearchTerms=brink+of+fame I wonder if it'll go for as much as some of the others on Ebay that we haven't seen before.

Carole and Cas, are these generally shots taken during shoots that were simply never used?

Most of the photo's that have appeared recently on Ebay from the same seller, do seem to have been shots that were never used Will. A few are less rare, like the one of Dusty sleeping, and others are just different poses from some sessions that gave us more recognisable shots. I believe there are still more to come 🙏 I did spot that we got to see more of the birthday shot Cas but I wonder, as that particular pic has now appeared on the internet and so is less rare, if it will affect it's price.

Yes thats a thought Carole, I think that myself because I'm quite happy to have any new ones, even if they do have the Ebay logo in one corner, and whatever size, as I could never afford to buy them all.

What kind of prices do the original photos generally go for on Ebay? (a thing I have never used) - no doubt the prices will differ dependent on the actual image and its' rarity, but as a general rule, what is the "going rate"?

Nice picture Carole - thanks! I agree with you about that awful look with the bacofail, not a fantastic move on the fashion front. (Have to say though that I did quite like the "Am I the Same Girl" look - thought it had possibilities!) I once picked up from LTD Dusty images a photograph I took of Dusty in the porter's box of the Golders Green TV Theatre - it shows a somewhat surprised looking Dusty (cream blouse and gold coloured metallic-disc chain-mail type jacket) and Pat didn't think I should offer it to Fan Club members as it wasn't all that brilliant - there was another one available at the time of Dusty with a "flattering" mustard coloured wall behind her which I did send out to Fan Club folk. When I master my new scanner (now that I'm a couple of weeks retired!), I must copy these photographs and other memorabilia and maybe finally contribute something useful to LTD!!

Dusty in bacofail was a bit much but I feel she was making a statement for some reason (pissed at Stringfellow, maybe?) She may have had a reputation for being shy but then again if she had something to say well..she said it. 😊

I would have to say that, for me, the 'orange' wig look was worse. 😞

which track of Dusty's was on that World Star Festival LP?

I'm guessing "bacofail" is what Americans would call tinfoil or aluminum foil? Love that picture of Miss Dusty in the blue jacket though.

Cas, I got the pic from a CD booklet, The Singles+. I've seen, (but don't have it myself) a film of Dusty exactly as she is in that photo, lip-syncing to Time After Time, so I'd guess it was taken when that was made. Clive, I don't know what track was on the album as I don't have it. I'll ask around if no one else here knows.

Although Dusty wore this outfit on a few occasions, the only one I know of her performing in it was the Save Rave Concert in November 1969. Just checked with the Complete and it seems she sang a medley of Higher and Higher, Ain't No Mountain, To Love Somebody and People Got to Be Free, plus ICMEACTT.

Yes Memphis, her own hair. There were quite a few taken of her around that time with short hair and others where she just added a big hair piece to it. Never seen the 3rd one before Frans and it's a nice one, the second one did appear in a Bulletin, in the comin' and goin' section I think....unless of course, it's a very slightly different shot, I'll compare tomorrow😊

Replying to my own post here but I did check in the Bulletin and the exact same picture is in issue 57, so if you want it and don't have it, it would probably be cheaper to buy a back issue of the Bulletin(should there be any left of course!) than bid for the photo!

Cool pics, Carole! Thanks for posting. It's good to see Dusty in a crush of fans and autograph seekers. For those unlucky ones like me who never saw D in person I think these kinds of pictures give a real sense of D's tremendous personal charisma. More, please!

Nice one Will. She looks rather pensive.

Will, that is really sweet.
Carole, I've just seen the Ed Sullivan photos--brilliant!
Josh, nice cleanup job.

Thank you all so much.

The colour (a sort of fuschia?) is gorgeous, but I think the lady herself just looks utterly amazing there.

Thanks Cas, that's luvverley 🙏 We have a sort of close up of that shot, I think it was from a newspaper, I posted it once somewhere, but I don't have the whole thing like this. Another selling for a big price methinks. We should add this to the Dusty and animals thread, which I'm sure is where the close up shot is.

Nice one 🙄 I wonder if the kitty is watching the record go round? Then the arm goes flying and the stylus gets ruined! Funny to see the Black Nativity album on the floor. This would be 1963 and I'm not sure if Dusty knew Madeline then, maybe she did, or maybe she just liked the record.

Great ones, thanks ladies.

Do you know where these photos were taken?

Also, what is Dusty doing with her hands in the 2nd photo?

Maybe she's putting the heel back on her shoe?

The kitty is gorgeous! Mwah kitty!

It looks like she is fiddling with the tip of her shoe heel, Bosseh.

That last one is great. Dusty plus Cat and her records all over the floor (and her showbiz wardrobe cases with that rack of show clothes). Just great. 'Black Nativity' (already pointed out by Carole) and 'Mucho Ritmo' are the album covers I can read. There's a soul group there too I think. I can't make out the 'Music To...' title. But anyway, Dusty had such a great varied musical taste. I love this perfect little photo.

Would this be just as she was leaving The Springfields? If it is we can see the transition she would make just by looking at those records. And the meeting with Madeline was coming up.... Fab!

It's a fabulous shot that I love for different reasons. I think she looks all sorts of things here, serene, sad, coy and very beautiful. She looks like a moooovie star 😊 I've always wished the strange stuffed toy would disappear but you can't have everything! Here's the pic without the wording.

Dusty looks quite fabulous in this photo. It's a Wow! photo. Is this from the same session? Has she changed and moved to another room?

Looks like a Pucci style dress in something like cashmere - lovely. She looks gorgeous in it. Her lamp has angel wings in the photo and what is that beside it - a dish warmer or a piece of futuristic hi-fi?

I love these photos...

Yes it does look like a dish warmer, Memphis - even has the little lights on the front.

I would guess that these pictures were taken on the same day, and also the ones of Dusty in the tartan dress. Her hair, tights and when wearing them, shoes are all the same. I feel an extra thread coming on where we can collect these all together!
