I agree with everyone, this is a gorgeous picture of Dusty.

Can anyone answer this definitively for me: what colo(u)r were Dusty's eyes??? Were they the sort of eyes that could change color? Or th... depending on the lighting?

This has probably come up on another thread, perhaps before my time here at LTD, but if someone knows, would they please tell me?

THANKS!

Annie

Hi Annie

I asked that question about the colour of Dusty's eyes and got a lot of help here from ever generous Dusty people:

Clive, I have to admit to buying nearly all the Mirropix Dusty shots (including this one), they've good quality and good value, unlike some or Cas, that dress did get around didn't it?! And those shoes, I remember she wore them in Liverpool and I searched around till I found some s Buddy Rich pic of me in Annie's book!

Well done Will you clever boy!! The photos look great! Frans, the "fourth Springfield" is the disc jockey Alan "Fluff" Freeman who used to DJ possibly a DJ on one of the "pirate" radio stations in the early 60s before Radio One). He used to call his audience "pop-pickers" if I rememb there was a photo of Dusty and Alan published in the DSB at one time.

Busy hands are happy hands!

How annoying it didn't print the way it wanted you to !!

Do you have a software program you can use to change the colors with? That's all I did. Just slid various bars LOL. After painting in the background some highlights.

Memphis and Mary, don't know if it will help, but posted above are actually three different files I put up on Photobucket....three different pictures. I save three different files? Does that make sense?

I should put this in a different post BUT, I've met a lovely artiste from Berlin on Myspace, and this gentleman from Berlin is going to design and be auctioned at Dusty Day, and other copies will be available from his website.

It is a beautiful photo, it first appeared in the booklet with Classics and Collectibles. I don't have any info on where it was shot but it's always the photo's of Dusty taken on Hove beach, possibly because she's wearing the same shirt, but also because her hair looks the same. So me field 😊

That's such a lovely photograph. That has got to go into the large format coffee table book. Another lovely Sunday Dusty shot from Cas. T
