A wonderful selection, Josh, thank you. I love the top row especially--I like the simple dresses and her hand gestures. Have to agree with Carole about the look in the second row of photos. Third row, far right. Kinda campy, as are others from this session. SO posed. But a fantastic look.

Amazing how Dusty could look great in jeans and evening gowns.

Thanks Josh - very kind and you have found some rare ones here.

My - that curly wig is rather large - I never realised what a balancing act wearing it must have been.

Great photos, Josh, thanks! I think the first three might have been Dusty singing "Going Back" on Ready Steady Go - I have some colour pic which was coloured green, brown and orange stripes - used them on my sleeve design for ICMEACTT! The hairstyle on the second row is d "backcombed up the whazoo!" Where these taken from her ATV series? Does anyone know if any of these shows still exist in videotape?

the flossed up ones 2nd row are from london palladium 1968 & although prob filmed doesnt exist now.

the polkadot one is from top of the pops prob 65 so could have been "going back" too (but also not existing) for cas who likes dusty in bling heres a hefty one from 69 on cilla

Thank you Jonny, its a lovely pic, love that chain!

Why is she in the middle of a doily?! And wearing the lady mayoress's chain. We did do some rather strange things towards the end of the : jonny? I've never seen it before (unless my memory is failing me again!)

Although I wasn't there (and so wish I had been), the picture was taken at The Silver Convention in 1988 in London. There are quite a few that is so dark you can only see anything when someone takes a flash photo!

The scribbled on picture is in DWD. The last time I put that book in the scanner to copy a picture, two pages fell out! What Dusty wrote is featuring a NOSE. WHY? I'm not fond of my nose but it's NOT THAT BIG!

I have those two Silver Convention ones too Trek and you'll be pleased to know mine are only the same quality as yours 😊

I really like this one from the 'Beautiful Soul' album. No makeup (or hardly any - perhaps a little mascara and lipgloss?) and she looks really \ mind - if someone took a photo of me without my face on and then made it publicly available, I'd be exceptionally cross. I'm also very amus Very Dusty.

Plus I love the lovely photo of her on the cover as well - sometimes I think she looked her best during her early and mid-thirties...

...although this is my favourite Dusty photo. It's something about the combination of the Austin Powers suit and the incredibly heavy fringe photos from this TV appearance have been posted - does anyone know where and when they were taken, and/or what she was singing?

Yes Peter, Christmas Day at her mum and dads, 1968. One report did say balcony but another said that she had gone out into the garden and John Rowles were larking about, rushed out of the house and knocked her down a 3'6" drop onto concrete. She broke her nose. I just checked Duggie, if you read this, can you remember the incident or are you not guilty?

There are a lot of pictures of Dusty in a polo (or turtle) neck shirt in 1964. She must have had quite a few I think, at least one in pink as ti wore the same thing in San Remo in 65, when I met her in 66 and when she was with Brian Henderson in Australia. Obviously a style she lik hair fits then but if you compare it with her hair on other 'polo' shirt ones that we have, there's a subtle difference. I think the nearest look

Now you've made me stop and think and scrutinise Paula.

I think it is her, looking at all the little landmarks on her face, everything is just about right I think. Note the shaded line of her jaw, that cc that deliberately. Also note the shading on her nose, it curls around her nostril to her face exactly in the way Dusty's does, most peoples d Dusty has little blobs on the end of her fingers, that's not meant to be rude or critical in any way, but I've always though she had very dis
